Afghan protests spread, Kabul remains chaotic

Two dead in Asadabad as militants fire on crowd; militia tells imams to urge agitators to stand down

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

DESPITE the violent crackdown in Jalalabad the previous day, protesters continued to defy the Taliban on Thursday carrying out marches in many places, including capital Kabul.

With protests spreading to more cities, the Taliban asked the country's imams to urge congregants to remain in the country and counter "negative propaganda" against them during Friday's prayers.

On Thursday, two persons were killed as the militants fired on a crowd in Asadabad in the eastern province of Kunar. Gunshots were also heard at a Kabul rally, though no casualty was reported. So far, 12 people have been killed in and around the airport, according to reports.

The scenes in Kabul continued to remain chaotic with crowds thronging the airport gates in a bid to flee the country. In a heart-wrenching incident caught on camera, a small girl was seen hoisted over the airport's high perimeter wall and handed over to a US soldier, showing the desperation of people trying to get out.

Meanwhile, a UN report said the Taliban are intensifying their hunt for people who worked for and collaborated with Nato and US forces. The confidential paper was produced by the Norwegian Centre for Global Analyses, which provides the UN with intelligence information, BBC reported. "The Taliban are arresting and/or threatening to kill or arrest family members of target individuals unless they surrender themselves to the Taliban," the document said. People with positions in the military, police and investigative units are at risk, the report said.

US President Joe Biden, who is widely panned for pulling out his troops without ensuring the safety of civilians, said in an interview the Taliban have not changed but are going through an 'existential crisis' about whether they want legitimacy on the global stage as they have taken over Afghanistan. HC orders CBI probe into heinous crimes in Bengal post-poll violence

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

IN what was seen as a moral blow to the Mamata government in West Bengal, a five-judge bench of the Calcutta High Court on Thursday unanimously ordered a CBI probe into heinous cases of murder, rape and crime against women during the widespread post-poll violence in the state, observing there were 'definite and proved' allegations that complaints of the victims were not even initially registered by the state police.

The court set up a Special Investigation Team (SIT) comprising three IPS officers of the West Bengal cadre to investigate other complaints of post-poll violence. The officers are Suman Bala Sahoo, Soumen Mitra and Ranveer Kumar. The proceeding shall be monitored by a retired judge of the Supreme Court. The court restrained the state government from taking any adverse action against those who will work with the SIT without permission.

A committee set up by the National Human Rights Commission to look into the alleged post-poll violence had recommended a CBI probe into grievous offences and suggested conducting trials of these cases out of Bengal. But the bench decided against shifting the trial outside Bengal.

"All the cases where, as per the report of the Committee, the allegations are about murder of a person and crime against women regarding rape/attempt to rape, shall be referred to CBI for investigation. The Committee, NHRC, and other Commission or Authority and the State shall immediately hand over entire record of the cases entrusted to the CBI for investigation. It is made clear that it shall be a court-monitored investigation," the order said.

The bench also directed the state government to provide immediate compensation for those whose properties were damaged in the post-poll violence. CONTINUED ON: P10

Lack of tolerance

Justice Soumen Sen said the necessity to appoint CBI was the core issue. "The majority's lack of willingness to exercise oversight and lack of tolerance to accept different views in a democracy often lead to oppression on minority and shake foundation of good governance," he said

Bengaluru sees surge in children trafficked for labour

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

INDICATING a surge in the number of children being brought to Bengaluru for labour, a total of 101 minors, including nine girls, have been rescued by the Railway Protection Force (RPF) at various stations across the Bengaluru Railway Division in just one month. More than half of those rescued are young boys from Bihar.

The data for the period from July 17 to August 18 takes into account children rescued by the 'Nanhe Farishtey' team, a special unit of the RPF, to counter child trafficking on railway premises, and the Shakti teams constituted for women's safety. A senior railway source said, "The maximum number of 56 children have been brought from Bihar, followed by 15 children from different parts of Karnataka and 12 from Uttar Pradesh. The kids from Bihar initially told us that they came to study at madrasas in the State, but when we cross-checked, we found out that these centres were closed due to the Covid pandemic. After much convincing, the kids later revealed that they were promised good jobs in Bengaluru."

The children also hail from Madhya Pradesh, Assam, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Jharkhand, Punjab, Rajasthan and Tamil Nadu, but in fewer numbers. P7

BBMP axes 50 trees to make space for PHC, dialysis centre

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

RESIDENTS of BCMC Layout were in for a shock on Wednesday, when they saw a site, earmarked for a park, resembling a barren land. About 50 fully grown trees were reduced to stumps, and all the saplings were bulldozed. When they questioned the contractors on the ground, they were told that the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) directed them to do so.

On checking with BBMP officials, they were shocked to learn that the site was to be utilised for constructing a primary health and dialysis centre. Reason: BBMP does not have any other place in Ward 198, Hemmigepura, to set up a medical centre. The ward is part of Yeshwanthpur constituency, Rajarajeshwari Nagar zone.

Sridhar K C, a resident of the layout, said, "The city needs more lung spaces, so axing 50 full-grown trees was definitely not right. Moreover, the site is triangular in shape, with narrow approach roads on both sides. So, it is not suitable for a medical centre."

Reacting to this, BBMP assistant engineer Dayananad, RR Nagar zone, said work was taken up by the BBMP wing. "In a pandemic like this, it is important to create medical infrastructure. Setting up a PHC and dialysis centre in every ward is a part of the government's plan," he added.

Manjunath S, from BCMC Layout, said that about 25-30 per cent of the layout is occupied and it is the ideal time to ensure there is sufficient green cover. "We are not against development, but not at the cost of losing our entire green cover," he said.

RR Nagar Joint Commissioner Nagaraj said he was not aware of the issue and promised to look into it.

Firm defends sacking of quarantined staff

At a time when citizens are ringing war room for emergency help, we can't afford absenteeism, company says

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TRANSACT Global BPO Services India, the private company in charge of the BBMP Sahaya control room, has justified termination of services of its employees, saying that it could not afford absenteeism at a time when people were calling their emergency helpline. Transact officials were reacting to TNIE's story 'Company managing BBMP Sahaya control room sacks 11 employees'.

On August 16, TNIE had reported that after two people tested positive in the control room, the remaining nine employees had sought a few days to quarantine at home, but were allegedly denied leave. When they did take leave, their services were terminated, the employees complained. At the time of publishing the article, Darshan Chinappa, founder-director of Transact Global, said that he was not aware of the issue.

In a statement, Subramanian S, VP-Operations, Transact Global, said only one person had tested positive and no other Covid cases were reported. "Around 10 people on a particular shift decided not to come to work, demanding work from home duty, a day after the lockdown was announced. They were paranoid/lazy to work. In case they had Covid, they could have produced the positive certificate - which they did not do. They just stopped coming and did not respond to calls or inform the office or anything that complies with the employment contract. We waited for their return for over a week besides several attempts to call them and motivate them to come back," Subramanian said.

The HR team, according to him, maintained contact with the people and termination letters for absconding from work were triggered almost a week after they stopped responding.

Justifying their service termination, the company added that at a critical time when people called the helpline for bed booking, ambulances, doctors, vaccination, they coulnot afford absenteeism.

No grace marks for pvt students in PUC II exam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE first day of second PUC supplementary examination saw 94.29 per cent students writing the paper on Thursday.

As many as 333 students had registered for the three subjects - optional Kannada, Mathematics and Basic Mathematics and 19 students remained absent. The exam was held in 85 centres in the state.

The Minister of Primary and Secondary Education B C Nagesh visited two exam centres in the city- St Annes Institute and Kote Vanivilas Girls PU College, and announced that social distance norms and other Covid safety guidelines were followed in all the centres.

Nagesh instructed college administrators to take additional precautions as the department is expecting a higher number of examinees on August 21.

He said that the number of students who rejected the evaluation done by the Board and decided to retake the exam is very low. The highest number of examinees are private candidates.

Minister BC Nagesh visited Vani Vilas Girls College for inspection | SHRIRAM BN

"Since these students had enough time to study during the lockdown, there is no question of giving grace marks," the minister added.

50 pc students were not studying for 1.5 years

Nagesh on Thursday said that students of Class 9 and 10, who will be attending offline classes from August 23, will have revision classes for a fortnight. "Students have missed classes for a year and a half. Just 50 per cent students have been able to attend classes via Vidyagama or virtual modes. Others need to adapt to the school environment," he added.

Decision on Classes 1-8 after August 30: Nagesh

BC Nagesh said that after Classes 9-12 opens on August 23, the decision to resume offline classes for Classes 1-8 will be taken after August 30. He said that during this period, education officials have been asked to collect opinions from parents and see what they feel about resuming physical classes. "We are trying to gather information on the number of cases at school-level during the first and the second wave," he added. He said that experts have stated that infection among students will not increase, hence, there is no need to worry about the third wave.

Senior citizens to take water bill protest online

The two protesters outside the Indiranagar BWSSB office on Thursday

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE protest by two senior citizens outside different water board offices on behalf of residents of Kallahalli BDA Flats Phase-I and II, over their exorbitant water bills, concluded on Thursday with no resolution. They now plan to take their campaign online.

The crux of the issue is that the water bill including arrears and interest amount to be paid by all the families since 2013 comes to Rs 93 lakh. However, the residents claim that their water bill charges are only Rs 27 lakh, out of which they have already paid Rs 26 lakh.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, president of Kallahalli BDA Flats IInd Phase, R Muralidharan said, "We protested outside the office at HAL IInd Stage, CMH Road and at Cauvery Bhavan by distributing pamphlets. I was told of a possibility of meeting the BWSSB chairman to discuss the issue later this month."

He further added that nothing concrete emerged out of the protest. "We now plan to take our campaign online by uploading videos on YouTube and using other social media platforms to ensure we get justice," he said.

Despite repeated calls in this connection, no one from the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board responded.

20th August: According to one theory I wrote about recently, our universe is not only bigger than we can imagine, but is one of many, perhaps an infinite number, which occupy the same space but in different dimensions. If that is the case, then, as some ancient sages and teachers thought, that somewhere in this or another universe there are people just like us, doing the things which we are doing!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
Most astrologers say that it is necessary to flow with the dominant planetary influences of the times. Yet, if you wish, you may buck the trend and deal with issues which are not now of greatest importance, such as travel plans, educational arrangements and legal questions.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
Life hops from one set of lunar alignments to another. At this stage in the cycle you may be forced to get rid of anything of no lasting value, much as this may go against the grain. You have much to gain from making a fresh start in all close family relationships.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You're under the Moon's emotional sway today, and the pace is bound to pick up. So much appears to be affected by circumstances over which you have little or no control. There is nothing strange in this. After all, we are all dependent on partners, friends and associates to one degree or another.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There is a real danger at the moment of saying more than situations warrant. Yet other people will be surprised when it turns out that your bite is indeed every bit as bad as your bark. Although you sometimes can't find the best words, when you do, your famous sharp tongue will give them a real sting.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)
You would do best not to try to predict the outcome of any emotional wrangles or conflicts until the dust has settled. At present, it still looks as if anything may, and probably will, happen. You still have to unravel a financial question, though, so get on with it!

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sept 23)
It's head down and shoulders to the wheel for you, no matter where your dreams and fantasies have led you over the past week. There is much to be done before you can afford to rest on your laurels. In fact, I'd say there could be another eight to nine weeks before you achieve your goals.

LIBRA (Sept 24 - Oct 23)
Venus' evolving position is bound to boost your morale to new heights. However, for another few days you may still be unable to do more than wave your arms ineffectually, as partners fail to take account of what you are trying to say. They might not notice what you're doing either, and that could work in your favour.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)
No one has truly been able to complain that you lack ambition, for you have succeeded in promoting your own interests very discreetly. Success, though, is relative, and can only be measured against how well, or badly, other people have done. Don't judge yourself too harshly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 22)
Like a number of other people, you have been experiencing many changes of mood. Yet your life has been smoother than most, largely due to the stabilising relationship between the Sun and your own sign. Once you have worked out a problem with authority, I suspect other difficulties will sort themselves out.

CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)
Jupiter's powerful and brooding relationship with Saturn means one thing: partners and close associates are going to be disagreeably surprised if they imagine that they can get the better of you - especially if they're trying to get their hands on your money.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)
All the indications point to this being a time of upheavals and enforced changes, particularly in relationship to partners. People who are involved with you emotionally, professionally, socially and financially, are all reassessing their priorities - and that covers just about everything.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)
You've been able to duck and dive in the past. Now you must be totally honest and one hundred percent objective about your attitudes to other people. Quite aside from your personal relationships, your career interests depend on how well you get on with partners and colleagues.

India must up vax cover, or deal with mutations

Country has vaccinated only 9.1% of its population with both doses while K'taka has covered 11.59%

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

A study done in the US highlighted the fact that India, and countries with high Covid-19 caseload, need to increase vaccination coverage as it has been found to reduce frequency of mutations in the Delta variants of the SARS-CoV-2 virus.

India is still grappling with vaccine supply issues, and has managed to vaccinate only 9.1 per cent of its population with two doses. Karnataka has done marginally better, covering 11.59 per cent of its population with both doses.

The study, conducted by University of Maryland researchers, involved collecting complete genome sequences of SARS-CoV-2 from the Global Initiative on Sharing All Influenza Data (GISAID) database. Viral sequences from 20 countries were included. The analysis revealed that with an increase in vaccination rate, there is a reduction in the frequency of viral mutations. This inverse correlation between vaccination rate and mutation frequency was observed in 16 of 20 countries.

The study quoted the mutation rate of SARS-CoV-2 as 7.23 mutations per viral sample. From India, 4,451 samples were genome sequenced. The study found a high mutation frequency in India, US, Japan and Switzerland.

So far, 35.62% of health workers in Karnataka have been vaccinated

Quoting the pre-print study, Chief Scientist at World Health Organisation (WHO) Dr Soumya Swaminathan tweeted: "Vaccination can prevent new variants arising by reducing transmission, and reduce deaths by protecting the vulnerable. Two good reasons to ensure equitable vaccine distribution globally. WHO is calling for 40% population coverage of EVERY country by end 2021."

In the study, scientists explored the association between vaccine coverage rate and mutation frequency of the SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant (B.1.617.2), which was originally found in India, and created havoc across the world, leading to multiple waves in many countries.

Scientists have recommended mass vaccination, control measure implementation and continuous genomic surveillance as the most vital strategies to combat the Covid pandemic. Karnataka has so far vaccinated 35.62 per cent of healthcare workers, 2.12 per cent of frontline workers, 3.50 per cent of its 18-45 age segment, and 36.53 per cent of 45+ age group, as of August 18.

PM-CARES fund ventilators were faulty, shows Bowring death audit

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

DEATH audits done during the first Covid wave in Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital, found that there were faulty non-invasive ventilators (NIV) and regular ventilators. The ventilators were donated by PM-CARES Fund.

The notes of the death audit conducted between October 5, 2020, and November 3, 2020, listed recommendations made in a meeting. One of them read, "Oxygen supply issues and issues regarding non-functioning Non-Invasive Ventilators and ventilators to be solved at the earliest."

Notes of the discussion held for the death audit conducted for the dates August 19, 2020 and October 4, 2020, read, "Issues with the functioning of Agva ventilators."

"Two or three NIVs which the hospital purchased had problems, and we exchanged them for new ones. The Agva ventilators were donated by PM-CARES Fund, and 4-5 of them had issues. We replaced those too. These problems did not affect patients because we would replace the machines with functional ones, as soon as we found out that they were not working," a doctor from Bowring Hospital said.

When the caseload was low, the hospital exchanged the machines with functional ones.

There have been reports of faulty ventilators sent to Maharashtra, Rajasthan, Punjab, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh and other states by the Health ministry. Many of them have been lying unutilised.

Apart from this, acute scarcity of beds during the second wave was also revealed in the minutes of the meeting, for the death audit conducted between May 16, 2021, and June 15, 2021.

A query was asked on the reason for non-availability of beds, especially ICU beds, at the right time. The response read, "A majority of patients were walk-in patients who were critical with low oxygen saturation and were managed in triage itself, due to non-availability of beds in various zones."

CM's HOME DISTRICT GETS 10K DOSES DAILY

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @Haveri

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai's home district Haveri was among the top three positions in vaccination, for four days in the past 10 days. Earlier, the district was getting minimum supply of vaccine doses, but things have changed in the past few weeks. Every day, the district is supplied with more than 10,000 doses of vaccine.

On August 11, 14 and 18, the district stood at third position and on August 8, at second place in daily vaccination coverage. After Bommai, who represents Shiggaon constituency in Haveri district, became Chief Minister, the district is getting good supply of vaccines. The district has a 12.2 lakh eligible population to get the vaccine.

A senior officer said that in three weeks, things have changed and vaccine supply has comparatively improved. This constant supply has resulted in the district vaccinating 50.77 per cent (6.19 lakh people) eligible population. Health department staff have reduced vaccine wastage, helping to vaccine more people, he added.

The district reproductive and child health officer Dr Jayanand M said that soon after vaccines are supplied, they plan for the next day. They have set up 300 vaccine centres.

10-DAY LEGISLATURE SESSION FROM SEPTEMBER 13 IN B'LURU

This will be the first session for the new government headed by Basavaraj Bommai

Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy briefs the media about the Cabinet decisions in Bengaluru on Thursday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE next session of the legislature will be held for a period of ten days on September 13, announced Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy. This will be the first legislative session for the Basavraj Bommai government.

It is mandatory to hold the legislature session every six months and considering that the last legislative session concluded on 24 March, the government will have to hold the session before September 24, as stipulated in the Constitution under Article 174. As per procedure, the cabinet decision of Thursday to hold the legislative session will now go before the governor. This is considering that the last session was prorogued and under the rules, the governor will have to pass the order summoning the Houses of legislature which could be done sometime next week.

> The legislature session will not be held in Belagavi as demanded by some, but will be held in Bengaluru
> J C Madhuswamy, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister

Madhuswamy also said that the legislature session will not be held in Belagavi as demanded by some, but will be held in Bengaluru. It may be recalled that the opposition Congress had been reminding the government to call a legislature session to discuss the Covid and flood situations in the state.

Yediyurappa to take his place among MLAs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state cabinet on Thursday decided to call a 10-day legislature session from September 13. While this will be Basavaraj Bommai's first session as Chief Minister, all eyes will be on his predecessor B S Yediyurappa.

Yediyurappa, who is currently holidaying in the Maldives with his family and friends, is expected to return in the last week of August. While closer to his resignation, the former chief minister's aides suggested that he may stay away from sessions henceforth, a symbolic attendance is expected as part of Bommai's debut. After occupying seat number 1 — the designated seat as floor leader — Yediyurappa will sit among legislators of his party on the treasury benches this time around. While the first row of seats on the treasury side is reserved for ministers, the procedure is to seat the rest of the MLAs as per seniority.

"The number of times that an MLA has been elected will be considered for seniority. In case MLAs share seniority, say if four people are five-time MLAs, then we go by alphabetical order to allot seats," said a secretariat officer.

In the case of Yediyurappa, an eight-time MLA and four-time Chief Minister, seniority will ensure he sits in the second or third row of the treasury benches if due process is to be followed. "Sometimes, however, parties request particular seats for leaders and if the Speaker approves, then such allocation is given. In case of former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and former Speaker Ramesh Kumar too, such requests were considered," a secretariat staff said.

No such request for specific seats for Yediyurappa had been made till Thursday evening. During the JDS-Congress coalition government, Siddaramaiah did not hold any ministry and is said to have voluntarily requested to be seated in the last rows of treasury benches, closer to the door. The last row seats closer to the exit is generally reserved for the whips of political parties.

SC allows Reddy to stay in Ballari

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR
@Ballari

THE Supreme Court has allowed Gali Janardhana Reddy, former minister of Karnataka and accused in the illegal mining case, to visit and stay in his hometown Ballari for eight weeks on Thursday. The decision has been welcomed by Reddy's family members while his fans are celebrating.

The SC bench headed by Justice Vineet Saran granted Reddy permission to visit Ballari, Ananthpuram and Kadapa districts in Andhra Pradesh, on the condition that he should follow the restrictions. The court has asked Reddy to inform the district SPs in case he visits any of these three districts in Karnataka, and neighbouring Andhra Pradesh.

On September 5, 2011, CBI arrested Reddy in connection with illegal mining in the Obulapuram mining area. He spent four years in jail in Hyderabad. In 2015, the SC granted him bail on the condition that without the permission of the court, he will not be allowed to visit Ballari and two districts in Andhra Pradesh.

In 2017, Reddy sought permission from the court to visit Ballari to see his ailing mother. In the same year, he was allowed to enter his hometown to attend the marriage of his daughter.

Tapal Ganesh, one of the witnesses in the illegal mining case and mining company owner, said that the decision has come as a surprise to many in the district. "Investigation is under way and there are 47 witnesses in the case from Ballari district alone. Reddy's entry into Ballari could spell trouble for some of the witnesses as there have been cases in the past where the witnesses were threatened," he opined.

G Somashekara Reddy, brother of Janardhana Reddy, expressed happiness over the Supreme Court's order. "The presence of Janardhana Reddy in his hometown will boost the morale of party workers and family members. We are yet to receive the complete order from the SC. We are happy that our brother will be able to take part in the religious programme being conducted at home during Shravana (month)," he said.

With no land available, state govt's cow shelter plan yet to take off

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE State Government, which implemented the anti-cow slaughter Act in earnest, is now finding it difficult to identify land for setting up cow shelters (goshalas) with adequate grazing land (gomala). Across several districts, vacant government land parcels have either been encroached upon or are being utilised for other purposes.

At present, there are 188 goshalas in the state, most of them run by religious mutt and NGOs. With the passage of the Karnataka Prevention of Slaughter and Preservation of Cattle Act, the government has been stressing on protection of cows and hence, plans to open government-run goshalas.

> We need at least 50 to 100 acres to develop a goshala with gomala land. But we are not able to get vast tracts everywhere.
> Prabhu Chauhan, Animal Husbandry Minister

Earlier, Prabhu Chauhan, as Animal Husbandry minister in the Yediyurappa Cabinet, had said that the government plans to construct two goshalas in each taluk. However, this was reduced to one goshala per district later on. Yet, the government has not been able to get suitable land in the districts.

Animal Husbandry Minister Chauhan said they initially planned to have such facilities in all districts but later brought it down to 20 districts. "We need at least 50 to 100 acres to develop a goshala with gomala land. But we are not able to get vast tracts everywhere. We might get land in five to 15 districts," he noted.

He, however, said the government is committed to developing goshalas with gomala land in all districts and insisted that at least some of them will be opened by October 2. He is hoping that the Revenue Department will provide land for the purpose.

On the other hand, Revenue Department officials are skeptical of finding gomala land with no encroachments. "We have gomala lands across the state. But they are encroached in many places, both by individuals and clusters. In some places, farmers have encroached upon gomala land, while in some other places, illegal constructions have come up. Some revenue land has also been handed over to the Rajiv Gandhi Rural Housing Corporation Ltd for construction of houses for the poor.

"In some places, land worth crores has been given to institutions including religious mutt, but are unused. We are not able to find proper land for the Animal Husbandry department," said official sources in the Revenue Department.

The officials pointed out that they have not done a land audit, and if this is done, they will get a clear picture of gomala land and other revenue land available.

The Animal Husbandry department is also considering a proposal to involve private players to maintain government goshalas. Minister Chauhan said he is keen on identifying the land and biofencing it (geo-tagging).

Cabinet gives boost to healthcare for poor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Basavaraj Bommai cabinet, at its first meeting on Thursday, approved the Mental Health Care Act, for providing healthcare and services to those with special challenges. Experts had suggested many practical changes to guidelines under the Mental Health Care Act, especially with noticeable psychological effects of Covid-19.

Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy, who briefed the media, said another far-reaching move had been taken up by the cabinet – to provide sanitary napkins to adolescent girls in all aided and government institutions. The initiative to improve menstrual health will be taken up under the Suchi programme, and will cost close to Rs 50 crore, according to an official estimate.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai arrives for the cabinet meeting at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Thursday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

With the pandemic exposing weaknesses in the state-run healthcare system, the government announced two important measures to fortify the system at the grassroots – setting up of 2,900 sub-health centres, which are expected to be upgraded to more comprehensive health and wellness centres, at an estimated cost of about Rs 480 crore, and 750 Primary Health Care centres to be upgraded at a cost of about Rs 150 crore. These centres serve the poorest of the poor across the state.

The cabinet also gave its approval to seven Amrith programmes announced by CM Bommai on Independence Day, to mark the platinum jubilee of Indian Independence. Amrith Nirmala Nagara programme will be launched in 75 urban centres to keep them clean, for which the government will provide Rs 75 crore.

A total of 750 farmer producer organisations will be set up to promote production and marketing of agriculture, fisheries and weaver products. The grant will be given for three years, at a total expenditure of Rs 225 crore. In addition, Rs 75 crore will be spent on basic infrastructure such as digital library, smart teaching class, lab and toilets at 750 select schools, at a cost of Rs 10 lakh per school, the minister said.

It was also decided to provide Rs 1 lakh as seed money to each of the selected 7,500 self-help groups whose transactions are transparent and performance has been satisfactory, to set up micro enterprises, adding up to Rs 75 crore. About 750 gram panchayat works will be taken up to improve basic infrastructure like streetlights, drinking water, waste disposal, solar power, digital libraries etc, for which each gram panchayat will be given Rs 25 lakh.

Anand Singh gives cabinet meet a miss

Bengaluru: Tourism, Ecology and Environment Minister Anand Singh, who has been sulking after being denied his desired portfolio, made his displeasure known by not attending the first cabinet meeting of the new government on Thursday. Anand Singh has been allocated a room in the Vidhana Soudha, but he has not visited it till now. Political analysts are comparing Anand Singh's absence to that of former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, who too was sulking and finally brought the government down. Anand Singh moved out of the Congress to the BJP along with Ramesh Jarkiholi.

Govt will help small landholders, says Shobha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Udupi

UNION Minister of State for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Shobha Karandlaje said that the ministry is aware of the sorry state of affairs of small landholders, and plans are being chalked out to set up 10,000 farmer producer organisations (FPOs) across the country.

"Once farmers with not more than five acres of farm land and who constitute 80 per cent of the agri community are brought under the FPO, the government will help them in procuring seeds, fertilizer and extend marketing assistance,"

Union Minister of State Shobha Karandlaje at a press meet in Udupi on Thursday

she told reporters during her visit to Udupi for the 'Janashirvada Yatre' on Thursday.

She said that after India passed a resolution on millets in the United Nations, all member nations voted in its favour and 2023 was declared the 'International Year of Millets'. This, the minister said, will help boost the demand for the organic millets grown by Indian farmers globally, and farmers in dry lands of India will be motivated to grow more millets.

"India is highly dependent on import for sourcing pulses, cereals and edible oil. Seventy per cent of our edible oil need is met through import. Except for people of Coastal Karnataka and Kerala, who source coconut oil for cooking needs, the rest of India is highly dependent on edible oil that come blended with palm oil imported from Indonesia and Malaysia. So currently, India is spending highly on import of edible oil, she said. Efforts are on to set up industries that can process oil seed and conduct research on making oil seed cultivation profitable in the dry land belt.

Pandemonium in Hassan CMC meeting over 'missing' portrait of Gowda

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hassan

THE missing portrait of former Prime Minister and JDS Supremo H D Deve Gowda in the chamber of the president of the City Municipal Council led to an all-out tussle between JDS and BJP councillors at the CMC general meeting on Thursday.

For over 40 minutes, the councillors traded barbs against each other, resulting in CMC president R Mohan, from the BJP, adjourning the meeting twice.

Raising the issue, Syed Akbar and C R Shankar, former CMC presidents from the JDS, and party member Girish took the president to task for "deliberately" removing the portrait of Gowda that was in the chamber for decades.

They contended that the portrait of former PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee was still in the same place. Some JDS members also blamed the CMC chief of insulting Gowda, a former Prime Minister. Peace prevailed after the CMC chief reinstalled the portrait of Gowda.

The portrait of H D Deve Gowda was reinstalled in the CMC president's chamber in Hassan on Thursday

The tussle over portraits of political leaders is not new for the Hassan city municipality. There was heated exchange of words among the JDS and Congress over installation of the portrait of former revenue minister and senior congress leader late H C Srikantaiah at the CMC meeting hall a decade ago.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Mohan clarified that the portrait of the former Prime Minister may have been removed recently by workers to apply whitewash on the walls, and he decided to put the portrait back after the renovation.

"I have high regards for Gowda, the only political leader from Karnataka who became a Prime Minister," he said.

However, the JDS councillors were not swayed, reiterating that the CMC president removed the portrait following direction from local MLA Preetam J Gowda, a political rival of former minister H D Revanna, Gowda's son.

The councillors said that all councillors should respect Gowda who has contributed immensely to his native Hassan and the state.

HC sets guidelines for child welfare panels

Lays down norms for counselling when parents, unable to look after kids, surrender them

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday laid down the guidelines for Child Welfare Committees (CWCs) on how to hold an inquiry and conduct counselling in cases where the parents or guardians surrender their children, unable to look after them for various reasons, as per the Juveline Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice NS Sanjay Gowda laid down the guidelines, as the state has failed to frame the rules, while hearing the public interest litigation filed by city-based Letzkit Foundation, that had brought the court's attention to the media reports of a two-week old baby abandoned by a young couple, who were in a live-in relationship in Mysuru. They had left the baby at the house of their friend.

After the incident, the court tried to convince the parents to take care of the baby but they refused and hence the NGO and the CWC are now taking care of him.

In view of this incident, the court laid the guidelines which will be in force in the absence of rules which have to be framed under Section 35 of the Juvenile Justice Act, within three months by the state government as per the order of the court.

The court also directed the CWCs to ensure that unscrupulous agencies should not take the benefit of such situation by illegally adopting such children.

Check factors for surrender

As per the guidelines issued by the court, the CWCs should conduct proper identification of children, meet parents individually, ascertain whether they are biological parents, factors forced to surrender child, and ensure surrender is not aimed to benefit adopting agencies, among others.

Youth murders mechanic for objecting to teasing wife

ENS @Bengaluru

A mechanic, who warned a youth not to tease his wife, was stabbed to death by him and his brother. The incident took place in Vijayanagar police station limits.

The deceased has been identified as Fazil Pasha (40), while the police have arrested Arbaz Pasha, aged around 20 years, and his younger brother aged 16 years. The deceased and the accused were neighbours in Padarayanapura. Fazil worked in a car garage on RP Road in Hampinagar, while Arbaz is a medicine delivery boy.

Police said Arbaz was allegedly teasing Fazil's wife and the latter had warned him. This had led to a fight between the duo. At around 10.15 am on Monday, Arbaz and his brother went to the garage and stabbed Fazil multiple times.

"Fazil sustained grievous injuries and was hospitalised. We registered an attempt to murder case and arrested Arbaz and his brother. On Wednesday, Fazil succumbed. We are investigating the case further and will re-register the case as murder," the police added.

Breakthrough infections are defined as fresh infections in fully vaccinated people

HALF OF INDIA'S BREAKTHROUGH CASES IN KERALA

High rate of infections raises concern on vaccine efficacy as festive season may see spike

UNNIKRISHNAN S @T'Puram

CONTRIBUTING over half of the new Covid positive cases in the country, the state has also accounted for half of the breakthrough infections reported till date. According to the latest report from the Union health ministry, 46% of the 87,000 breakthrough cases reported are from Kerala, which tops the national average in vaccination. That means around 40,000 infections were reported from the state. Breakthrough infections are defined as fresh infections in fully vaccinated people.

The alarmingly high rate of breakthrough infections have raised concerns among the public on the efficacy of vaccines, especially when the festive season is expected to increase the spread of the disease. Doubts about the presence of any fresh mutant of the virus in the state have been rejected by health experts, saying the proportion of breakthrough infections are within expected lines. They also vouched for the effectiveness of vaccines as the lone tool in controlling hospitalisation and preventing deaths.

On Thursday, the state reported 21,116 new positive cases with a high test positivity rate of 16.15%. It also reported 197 deaths, the highest single day toll in the past two months. The total Covid deaths stood at 19,246. The Union health ministry report reveals that breakthrough infections have been noticed in Wayanad, which became the first district to administer at least one dose of vaccine to all eligible persons, and Pathanamthitta where the vaccination coverage is better than the state average with over 75% given the first dose. Earlier this month, the concern over breakthrough infection was brought to the fore through a central delegation report that stated Pathanamthitta reported more than 7,000 cases by the end of July.

Hid inside bunkers, had no food for 2 days: NATO worker

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

MELWYN Monteiro, a Mangalurean, was one of the lucky ones to have left Afghanistan when the Taliban militia started moving closer to the Afghan capital. He was able to make it to the Indian Air Force (IAF) flight that took off from Kabul airport and landed safely in Gujarat Airport on Tuesday. He reached home on Wednesday along with diplomats, Indian embassy staff and officials.

Melwyn (45), a native of Uliya at Ullal near Mangalurum has been working in the electrical maintenance department of NATO military base camp in Kabul for the last 10 years. Though they were safe under military force, it was a horrible situation for almost a week for him and his family, Melwyn told TNIE. Recounting the days at their base camp, especially for the last one week, he said they even ran out of food for two days.

"We had no lunch and dinner as there were many Indians in the catering system who were ready to fly back to India. Also, as the Taliban inched closer to Kabul, we were asked to keep our body armours close. For the last one week, we were all frightened as we have seen and heard how cruel Taliban is. We hoped that our company would airlift us and also the military was with us. However, when Afghans stormed into Kabul Airport, we realised it was not easy to return as we witnessed the chaos from our rooms," he said.

"We saw people stand in the runway and also jump into the aircraft. Seven of us from our base could board the flight as Afghan civilians were moved away by the military forces. We reached Jamnagar army cantonment in Gujarat and reached Mangaluru via Delhi on Wednesday evening. Some of the Indians, including a few Mangalureans have been sent to Norway, London and Qatar in US/UK military flights and are expected to return after completing the quarantine period," he said, adding that before Taliban controlled Afghanistan, they had even hid inside concrete bunkers many a times when they received information of rocket attack.

He added they never thought the Taliban would capture the country as things were normal till June end. "I visited my home in June and returned. It was during the end of July that things changed drastically overnight. We will see the situation for the next few months and if things get better, I will go back to work there," he said.

Melwyn's wife Edwin told TNIE that they were in constant touch with him and they had to communicate only through messages, not calls. "Our prayers have been answered," he said.

Fake info on kids' Aadhaar cards a concern

AFTER counselling, the children have been sent to the Child Welfare Committee for safety. "Those who bring them often manage to escape when they spot the cops around," the source added. The rescue efforts were made at Yeshwantpur, Cantonment and KSR (Bengaluru City) railway stations.

The source said that a worrying trend was the fake information provided on the Aadhaar cards carried by the children. "We have found five kids carrying Aadhaar cards which showed their age as above 18. But our interaction with them revealed they were much younger."

On the reasons for such a trend, G Sumathi, state coordinator of Bachpan Bachao Andolan, which works across the country for children, said, "The pandemic-induced job losses suffered by the marginalised communities force them to send their children into labour. Bengaluru being a place where jobs are always available, children are being sourced from Bihar, Chhattisgarh. Even a completely unskilled person gets absorbed here. Through contacts, they then travel across the State where labour is required."

There is no strict implementation of laws framed for migrants and this makes it easy for traffickers to source them from other states here, she pointed out.

The recent augmentation of RPF staff has also helped in monitoring more trains and stations.

Vehicle hits electric pole, 18 calves dead

ENS @ Hassan

AS many as 18 calves died after the goods vehicle carrying 41 cattle rammed into an electric pole near Dyvappanahalli of Belur taluk on Thursday morning. The police with help of villagers rescued 23 calves and shifted them to Mysore Pinjarapole Society.

Upon learning about the accident, Belur MLA K S Lingesh rushed to the spot and alerted the police. The MLA also posted about the accident on the social media.

According to the police, the incident occurred when the driver lost of the vehicle while negotiating a curve in a hurry to reach slaughterhouses in Hassan, Madikeri and Mangaluru.

The police said legs and mouth of the cattle were tied with plastic thread and the vehicle was also covered with a tarpaulin sheet. The calves might have died due to suffocation, the police added.

The driver of the vehicle miraculously escaped unhurt and fled the scene immediately. Learning about the incident, Deputy Commissioner R Girish and SP K R Srinivasagowda rushed to the spot took the stock of the situation. The DC also directed the police to take stringent action against the culprits.

Halebid police have registered a case against Paramesh, owner of the goods vehicle and the driver who is at large. Expressing concern over the death of the calves, Basavaraj, a villager, blamed the police for failing to check transportation of cattle in goods vehicle. The police and those transporting cattle are hand in glove, he charged.

HC: Compensate family of boy electrocuted while hoisting flag

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday directed the state government to instruct the deputy commissioner to consider offering compensation to the parents of a boy who died due to electrocution, while erecting a flag post for Independence Day celebration at Karikere in Tumakuru district.

They directed the state to pay on the lines of compensation of Rs 10 lakh paid to the each parents in a similar unfortunate incident that claimed lives of five children at the Backward Class Pre-Metric Boys Hostel at Bannikatti taluk of Koppal district in 2019.

The deceased Chandan (16), son of a farmer Shivakumar, was studying in Class 10 at Chikkatutulukere in Tumakuru district. He was helping the primary school with arrangements for the Independence Day along with his two friends --Shashank and Pawan -- who sustained burn injuries, as they came in contact with live wire as well.

Observing that it is a very sad incident, the court also directed the government to instruct the deputy commissioner to ensure proper medical attention for the boys who sustained injuries and asked the government to bear the cost of the treatment. A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice NS Sanjay Gowda passed the order after going through the memo filed by amicus curiae BV Vidyulatha enclosing the media report of the incident.

The court was hearing the suo motu public interest litigation initiated on the death of five children who were studying in VIII, IX and X standards in Koppal district, and were electrocuted while removing the tricolour from their school terrace in 2019.

Reply to letters in same language, Centre told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Madurai

ALLOWING a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) filed by Madurai Lok Sabha MP, Su Venkatesan, last year, the Madurai Bench of Madras High Court on Thursday said it is the duty of the Union government to reply in English to a representation given in the same language. The division bench comprising Justices N Kirubakaran and M Duraiswamy, directed the Centre to follow the provisions of the Official Languages Act, 1963, strictly.

The MP had sought direction to use the English language alone in all communications between the Central and the State governments, its MPs and the people. He had approached the court after the Minister of State for Home Affairs replied to the MP's letter last year, requesting to set up examination centres for CRPF paramedical staff recruitment in Tamil Nadu and Puducherry, in Hindi alone.

The Central government should continue to use English, along with Hindi, as the former could act as a binding force, the judge said. He also cited Article 350 of the Constitution that states every person is entitled to give representation in any of the languages used in the Union or the State.

BEYOND RELIGION

Not Muslims, but Hindus observe Muharram in this village

SUNIL PATIL @ Belagavi

THERE is not a single Muslim family in this village, but Muharram has been observed for the past 11 years.

Religious harmony marks the uniqueness of Harlapur village in Saudatti taluk which has a dargah of 'Fakeer Swamy' that was built 11 years ago by Hindus raising funds. Every year, villagers celebrate Muharram that marks the new Islamic year. Due to the prevailing Covid-19 situation, the festival was a low-key affair complying with the guidelines.

'Panja' is prepared and installed at the dargah followed by the procession, special prayer and puja. A Hindu priest daily performs puja at the dargah since its inception.

Cure for snakebite

A neem tree on the premises of the dargah is believed to be life-saving to those who suffer snakebite. According to villagers, the snakebite is cured within two hours after consuming the juice prepared using neem leaf. Apart from Belagavi, even snakebite victims from Dharwad and Gadag districts also visit the argah.

Devotees offer prayers at the dargah in Harlapur | EXPRESS

Priest Goudappa Adiveppa Vakkund said, "We have great faith and devotion in 'Allah' and offer regular prayers and celebrate 'Muharram every year. This year, we prayed 'Allah' to eradicate the Covid pandemic for the good of society."

Ravi Chulaki, a villager, said, "Harlapur has a population of 3,500 celebrating 'Muharram festival for several decades. The devotees who visit famous Renuka Devi temple of Yallammana Gudda also visit this dargah which is four km away. There is a strong belief that wishes come true for any devotee who visits the dargah."

DMK'S IDEOLOGICAL CONSISTENCY IN PLAYING ARCHAKA CARD

It would be an understatement to say that Tamil Nadu has been shaped by the Dravidian movement. The movement in turn was shaped by E V Ramasamy, widely known as Periyar, who espoused a rationalist, anti-caste ideology. Periyar is frequently the target of ire from Hindu groups for some of his more explosive remarks against Hinduism and members of the Brahmin community. While both mainstream parties, the ruling DMK and the opposition AIADMK, draw from the movement's ideals, it is the DMK that has been accused of having an "anti-Hindu" slant. Yet, it is also the DMK that has made sustained efforts to open opportunities in temples to members of all communities.

It was Chief Minister M Karunanidhi, himself a rationalist criticised for "anti-Hindu" comments, who in 1970 amended the law to allow members of all communities to become archakas or priests in temples managed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments department, but an adverse verdict from the Supreme Court nixed its implementation. Finally in 2006, through a Government Order, Karunanidhi as CM again attempted to "remove the thorn in Periyar's heart". The Order once again was challenged but a favourable verdict was delivered by the Supreme Court in 2015. Subsequently, the Kerala government became the first to follow the ruling, Tamil Nadu making appointments from a languishing batch of government-trained archakas belonging to non-Brahmin communities in 2018 and 2020. This week, CM M K Stalin appointed 24 non-Brahmin archakas, five from Scheduled Caste communities. This is the first time that persons from SC communities have been appointed in temples managed by the HR&CE department.

Since the DMK came to power, observers have noted that it has paid special attention to the HR&CE department, thereby effectively nullifying a brief demand to free control of temples from the state while also maintaining a degree of ideological consistency as seen with the appointment of archakas.

LET ONAM HERALD RETURN OF GOOD TIMES

Another Onam is here. And for the fourth successive year, the usual cheer is missing. Onam isn't just the biggest festival for Kerala, it's also its most important shopping season, accounting for about 40% of the annual business. In a way, the festival marks the start of the shopping season in the country, and, from the trader's perspective, a good Onam is a precursor to a better Deepavali and an even better Christmas-New Year season. While it was the massive floods that washed away the festivities in 2018, a repeat of the floods and landslides, though not as devastating as the previous year, dampened the mood in 2019. The spread of Covid-19 forced people to scale down celebrations last year. The festival season business shrunk to less than 50% of what it could be during these years.

Things aren't much different this time. But the market is brimming with hope as the state has eased lockdown restrictions and opened almost all business sectors. With more than half the population receiving at least one dose of the vaccine, traders hope that business will be better, though the rising Covid graph remains a glaring concern. There are signs of better times. A survey said the FMCG market grew 21.5% in July compared to last year. White goods manufacturers have set a target of at least 25% more business this season than in 2017—the last time the festival was marked with full gusto. Most of the usual attractions, like the famous Pulikali, have moved to virtual platforms. The decision to go ahead with revelry, at least on online platforms, will help keep the festive spirit alive and lend a helping hand to the struggling artists.

'Never give up' is the message that the legend of Onam preaches. Despite losing everything under his command, Emperor Mahabali is not portrayed as someone who was defeated. He gains moksha and is given permission to visit his kingdom once every year—and that's when Kerala celebrates Onam. Let this Onam herald the return of good times. But let's not forget that we are in the midst of a pandemic. Any activity that could aid the virus spread should be avoided. What matters is the spirit of Onam, not the scale of its celebration.

KABUL WEARS A BURQA, THE WORLD SHUTS ITS EYES

SANTWANA BHATTACHARYA
Resident Editor, Karnataka, The New Indian Express

AMIT BANDRE

It's not as if the rest of the world furnishes us with a comforting sense of order: a runaway pandemic has cut away all our certitudes. Still, the spectacle of an entire country caving in like a Himalayan mountainside in an extreme weather event—the same suddenness, the same terror—is profoundly unsettling. Afghanistan at present resembles a quasi-void, the crater of a volcano that's only half-spent. Who knows what roils its deep insides? How the magma rumbles in unseen aspects of rage ... How can we watch placidly when history itself is at stake in a game of roulette? When medievalism returns to rule the ground and modernity falls off a plane?

All nation-states are formed of the stabilising hand of formal structures. However bloody their enactments of power, they are held back from outright depravity at least to a degree by the rule of law. Contrasted against that, the Taliban are a form of organised chaos—a permanent anarchy whose effect on lives can never be measured or chronicled. Born in violence, as one-eyed orphans of the Cold War, justice to them is retribution. Those who plotted Afghanistan's decades of horror may sit in the Pentagon, the Kremlin or the sleek bungalows of Rawalpindi, but revenge will be exacted on ordinary Afghan men. And women.

Of course, the apparition of a new order is upon us—the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan was born by fiat on Thursday. A formal transfer of power! Though raw power is entirely on one side and there was nothing much left to transfer on the other. Except the rights of women and young girls, and the lives of men who had dared collaborate with a collapsed imperialist agenda.

As young, gun-toting militiamen eat their ice-cream sprawled on palatial sofas where corrupt presidents once hosted high-value guests, the supremos must be cogitating about some hard-nosed realities. For one, access to the Afghanistan Central Bank coffers. All the stash is in London, not Kabul. The bank's chief, Ajmal Ahmady, has fled Kabul, blaming the runaway president Ashraf Ghani for his desertion, and hinting on Twitter that he was being hunted by the Taliban.

There's one more sleight of hand that awaits us. That's the talk of a new 'maturity'. Taliban 2.0 will not rest with a mere coronation; it seems to badly desire a recognition—legitimacy of sorts from the world order. A few in the neighbourhood will indulge them—China, Russia, Iran, Turkey, for starters. If American defence contractors could live off the trillions sloshing around Kabul, what's to stop the Asiatic lions from moving in for the kill now? There's good game here: energy, minerals, infrastructural lebensraum, what not. Pakistan, the nearest one, is of course already in their pocket—or are they in the ISI's? The only mineral resource Islamabad wants is strategic depth, and it has fallen into their lap. As for India, it sheepishly waits to see what Hamid Karzai and Abdullah Abdullah deliver in their talks with top Taliban commanders. On the original US prop rests India's hopes of securing its $3 billion investment and 400 infrastructure projects across Afghan provinces.

China, initially euphoric over the American abdication, seems a bit circumspect now. As if it too is waiting to see who really is the new Taliban. Whether Mullah Baradar, back in Afghanistan after 20 years, can deliver on the promise of keeping away global jihadists. A jihadist collective with every actor from the Levantine ISIS to Pakistani tanzeems like LeT networking with the Uyghur Islamist militia ETIM will do no good to China's keenness to bottle up the restive Xinjiang province.

> Over half of Herat University's students are female, and they dream of a future. Unless that future is shown to be secure, those who are eagerly waiting to get back to laying roads and energy pipelines will be committing a crime against humanity

But all that is geopolitics, the concern of others. Not of the Afghans. Taliban gunfighters may be taking joyrides in children's amusement parks, but they are no delinquents. Tribal medievalism and Sharia fanaticism form an unstable, dangerous cocktail. No one knows the markers of their self-proclaimed 'maturity' when it comes to the question of the rights of half of Afghanistan—its women.

Opaque, full-body burqas may only be the symbol of a new prison. The signs are clear and tangible. The Taliban top brass may have mouthed pious lines in their PR spree to prove they've changed, answering questions from women journalists at their coming-out presser, even giving interviews to women anchors. But within hours, all women anchors were removed from the state-run news channel. One of them, who came to office as usual on Thursday, was told: "The system has changed. Go home." Meanwhile, TOLOnews, the most reliable of Afghan news channels, is reinforcing its contingent of women journalists ... a burqa to hide the truth?

Make no mistake. The full array of rights—the right to work and vote, to be educated, to not be enslaved—is at stake. Already, The Guardian reports women and children being beaten on the streets. Shall we await the stoning and mob lynching? An unverified video showed gun-wielding Taliban wrenching away a child from her mother's clasp and walking off. What future awaits that girl? The Taliban may put up a showpiece woman or two in government. Far-away commentators will cite that in smug tones. But no rhetoric, no whataboutery will offer solace to the woman who desperately wanted to board a flight with her daughter—any flight to anywhere. To the mothers who reportedly threw their kids over the barbed wire of Kabul airport, to anyone who could fly them out of an imminent hell. In Herat, girls are still going to school, attending university, hoping to be bankers and doctors, even aspiring to politics! Over half of Herat University's students are female, and they dream of a future. Unless that future is shown to be secure, those who are eagerly waiting to get back to laying roads and energy pipelines will be committing a crime against humanity.

NULLIFICATION OF RETROSPECTIVE TAXES A RELIEF

KAVYA LALCHANDANI
Legal scholar based out of Delhi

The Taxation Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2021, was passed by Parliament recently. It seeks to amend the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961, and the Finance Act, 2012. Provisions have been inserted vide the above-mentioned amendment to the effect of removal of retrospective application of rules of taxation on any income that might arise out of transferring of shares or interest in a foreign company where the asset or capital asset is substantially located in India.

In 2012, Vodafone International Holdings BV had filed a case against the Union of India, due to imposition of retrospective tax on its acquisition of shares (nearly 67%) in Hutchison Essar Limited. The Supreme Court ruled in favour of Vodafone and stated that wherever such indirect transfers are supposed to be covered by the tax legislation, it has been expressly provided so. For instance, under Section 64, in computing the total income of the individual, the provision is clear that it includes both direct and indirect income of an individual. Under Section 9, which deals with the situations mentioned above and which is also the subject of the current amendment, there was no explicit provision to cover situations of indirect transfers. It further ruled that the transfer in the said case cannot be covered as it fails to satisfy the resident test and the source test.

After the apex court's ruling in favour of Vodafone, in May 2012, the legislature passed the amendment, which was at that time called 'an amendment which was clarificatory in nature' as to the provisions of Section 9 and sought to include taxation of gains from such indirect transfers retrospectively.

Till date, this was the law and it has been frowned upon by many. This retrospective amendment has not only had a negative impact domestically but also led to India breaching its international treaty obligations. Consequently, it has also led to successive litigations outside India where the government has been arraigned as a respondent. In September last year, Vodafone had already won the arbitral award against the government under the India and Netherlands Bilateral Investment Treaty. And under the UK-India Bilateral Investment Treaty, Cairn Energy PLC commenced arbitration proceedings against the Government of India, where the claim essentially rested on the illegality of the retrospective legislation and violation of principles of international trade law such as failure to provide fair and equitable treatment. The award by the Arbitral Tribunal so constituted was announced in favour of Cairn Energy PLC for $1.2 billion plus the interest and costs in December 2020. Although India did appeal against the award, the question was whether it would want to continue to accept the retrospective application of the provision.

> As India is struggling with stabilising its economy owing to Covid-19, foreign investments could help the country. The decision on retrospective taxes is delayed but is still welcome. The corrective measure should form a part of the larger series of decisions that should be taken by the government to send out a positive signal to foreign investors

The positive step of scrapping the inequitable provision was imminent after the passing of the award in favour of Cairn. More than 10 entities would now benefit from this provision, Cairn and Vodafone being the biggest stakeholders, and this would be a possible out from the 17 ongoing cases against the government. The conditions attached to the claiming under the provisions of the new law are: the company would withdraw or file an undertaking of withdrawal from pending litigation against India and the furnishing of another undertaking stating that the company would not file any claim for cost, interest or damages. Under the new law, the amount already deposited under the old law by the companies will be refunded to them without taking into account the interest.

It is pertinent to note that the tax law is one of the measures for the assessment of ease of doing business in a particular country and performing better in this index is one of the visions that the new India seeks to achieve. This corrective measure should form a part of the larger series of measures that should be taken by the government to send out a positive signal to foreign investors and avoid any prospective litigation in this regard. This step is slightly delayed but still comes at an acceptable time. As India is struggling with stabilising its economy owing to Covid-19, foreign investments in this growing economy could put the country in a better position.

This is also clear from the Statement of Objects and Reasons as mentioned in the Bill. All said and done, the government has dealt with this precarious situation in a practical manner because unstable economic laws are not desirable in any economy.

Centre should be honest

This is with reference to the editorial Fundamentally flawed govt narrative on hike in fuel prices (Aug 19). The UPA government's actions are still being blamed by the BJP. The advice to the Union finance minister to be honest over the cause for hike in fuel taxes is timely and admirable.
S Madhavan Thampi, Haripad

Reduce taxes gradually

As rightly mentioned in the editorial, the FM could have offered some solace to the frustrated people by indicating that a major portion of the fuel taxes would be used for capital spending for road building and infrastructure. Blaming the burden of UPA-era oil bonds for the hike in fuel taxes cuts no ice with the taxpayers. The need of the hour is gradual reduction in fuel taxes, which are unconscionably high, and not a debate on whether the Centre or states should act on this.
N Rama Rao, Chennai

Fuel prices kept rising

The editorial on hike in fuel prices was excellent. When crude oil prices were falling, the Centre went on increasing the taxes. So the citizens did not benefit from reduced prices.
B G Baliga, Thrissur

Well-written editorials

Many of us have become cynical about the media in general as due to lack of neutrality, the credibility has gone down in the recent decades. Perhaps ideology has come into play more now. However, it must be grudgingly admitted that both the editorials of this newspaper on Thursday—on fuel price hike and the healthcare system in Odisha—are well-written. A rare treat indeed.

SC does the right thing

This is with reference to SC junks appeal by Deshmukh to quash CBI FIR (Aug 19). The top court has done the right thing by dismissing the appeal of the former Maharashtra HM as the CBI was investigating him on the HC's directions.

Inspirational venture

That a group of 2,000 Gulf returnees have decided to set up a steel factory with a capital amount of ₹18 crore in Kozhikode is inspirational. Such ventures will help in the rehabilitation of the Gulf returnees, provided they are able to run them without the inherent problems posed by trade unions in the state.
S Lakshmi, email

Western hypocrisy

Many are worried about what will happen to Afghan women now that the Taliban is in charge. There are countries like India that have genuinely tried to help Afghanistan and invested considerably to bring peace and development. But then there are the hypocritical US and other Western countries that make a lot of money supplying arms and ammunition. Even now, we can see photos and videos of the Taliban holding and waving arms. The West owes Afghans an explanation.
B Anand, Puducherry

Taliban and sedition

The Taliban takeover of Afghanistan without much bloodbath has somehow made the terror organisation a peace-loving group of doves in the eyes of some opposition politicians (Booked for sedition for Taliban remark, SP MP denies charge, Aug 19). Nevertheless, to book an Indian citizen under the sedition law only because he has used his right to freedom of expression is not correct.
Ravi Mannethu, Pullad

Shameful act

This is with reference to Lahore police book 400 people for molesting Pak Youtuber on I-Day (Aug 19). The barbaric incident took place at the historic Minar-e-Pakistan. Pakistani PM Imran Khan should hang his head in shame.
S Vaithianathan, Madurai

Resource crunch

It is accepted by one and all that everyone in a geographical area has an equal right over the available resources. Cultivable land is decreasing with erratic monsoons and population growth. This is why population control is a must, as otherwise there could be chaos in society.
Paramananda Birganthia, Sundargarh

Ideological decision

In temples where communities other than the traditional one are already doing the divine service—by virtue of long-existing practices—those from the traditional community can't seek to do the services. There are some judicial pronouncements that say arrangements already in existence for centuries in Agama temples should continue. So the TN moves looks like an attempt to target a particular community against whom some are ideologically opposed. Can the government foist something like this on other religious communities?

31.5mn hate speech posts removed in last quarter: FB

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

IN a major crackdown on hate speeches and Covid-related misinformation, Facebook has claimed to have removed millions of posts in the June quarter. It said removal of such content has increased 15 times on Facebook and Instagram since it first began reporting these.

Facebook Vice-President Integrity Guy Rosen said in a blog post, "We removed 31.5 million pieces of hate speech content from Facebook, compared to 25.2 million in Q1 (March quarter), and 9.8 million from Instagram, up from 6.3 million in Q1...Prevalence of hate speech on Facebook continued to decrease for the third quarter in a row."

The world's largest social network had earlier said it aims to comply with India's new IT rules. Statistics on the crackdown are part of Facebook's Community Standards Enforcement Report for the second quarter of 2021. Rosen said in the second quarter, the prevalence of hate speech was 0.05 per cent, or 5 views per 10,000 views. This is down from 0.05-0.06 per cent or 5 to 6 views per 10,000 views in the first quarter of the year.

It removed over 3,000 accounts, pages, and groups for violating rules against spreading Covid and vaccine-related misinformation. "We displayed warnings on more than 190 million pieces of COVID-related content on Facebook that our third-party fact-checking partners rated as false, altered or missing context," it said.

Afghan situation heightens terror fears: Jaishankar

At United Nations Security Council, external affairs minister says certain countries undermining global efforts to attain peace & stability

Afghan nationals residing in New Delhi queue up outside the US Embassy on Thursday | SHEKHAR YADAV

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Thursday said recent events in Afghanistan have heightened global terrorism concerns and that groups like Lashkar-e-Taiba and Jaish-e-Mohammed continue to operate with impunity.

Speaking at the United Nations Security Council, at the open debate on 'The threats to international peace and security', Jaishankar said, "The radicalisation of youth through systematic online campaigns remains a cause of concern. Recent events in Afghanistan have raised global concerns on the implications of terrorism both regionally and globally."

Jaishankar, in an apparent reference to Pakistan, said that some countries continue to subvert global efforts against terrorism. "State hospitality is being extended to those who have the blood of innocent people on their hands. Such actions must be called out," the external affairs minister said.

He stressed that terrorism in all forms must be condemned and that it must not be linked to religion or nationality. Drawing a reference from the coronavirus pandemic, Jaishankar said, "Let's remember that what is true of Covid is even more true of terrorism. None of us are safe until all of us are safe. However, some countries undermine our resolve."

Jaishankar reiterated his eight-point proposal to tackle terrorism. He had proposed the formula while virtually attending a UNSC session earlier this year. This formula calls for summoning the political will while seeking no glorification of terrorists, no double standards, no blocks and holds on listing without reason, discouraging exclusivist thinking, enlisting and delisting objectively and not on political or religious considerations, recognising linkage to organised crime, strengthening of the FATF and greater funding to the UNOCT.

Director General of Afghan Institute for Strategic Studies, Davood Moradian, said it would not be an exaggeration to call the situation in Afghanistan a catastrophe.

India engaging in talks with Taliban not ruled out

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

In what can be seen as the biggest hint that India is engaging with the Taliban, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has said that the group's representatives are in Kabul and things should be taken as they come.

"We are looking at the evolving situation in Kabul... as Taliban and its representatives have come to Kabul and I think we need to take it from there," he said and added that these are early days still.

Jaishankar said New Delhi was following the events in Afghanistan very carefully and that the focus of the government was on ensuring the safety and security of Indians who are still stranded there.

Saying that India's historical relationship with the Afghan people continues, the external affairs minister, who is on a four-day trip to the US, said that the focus of his engagements has been on the situation in Afghanistan.

"At the moment we are, like everybody else, very carefully following developments in Afghanistan. I think our focus is on ensuring the security in Afghanistan and the safe return of Indian nationals who are there," he said while addressing reporters after chairing the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) session on UN Peacekeepers.

Jaishankar's comment comes days after India evacuated its diplomatic staff, including its envoy to Afghanistan Rudrendra Tandon and around 100 ITBP personnel from the war-torn country.

New Delhi has also launched a new emergency visa for Afghans seeking to come to India and also assured Sikhs and Hindus in Afghanistan of repatriation once commercial operations of flights begin.

Jaishankar arrived in New York on Monday for an emergency meeting of the UNSC on the situation in Afghanistan. India, currently a non-permanent member of the council, holds its presidency for August. Monday's meeting was the second time in 10 days that the UN body met to discuss the situation in Afghanistan.

Back home from Kabul via Dubai and London

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Dehradun

SUNIL Thapa, an ex-Indian Army man who returned home in Dehradun from Afghanistan on Monday, feels the Taliban has been is somewhat 'soft' on foreigners. But anxiety, fear and uncertainty prevails in Kabul and other parts where many Indians are still stranded.

Thapa and a few others worked in the security division of the British Embassy in Kabul. They were sent home via Dubai and London.

"I will never ever forget this five-day journey from Kabul to India. Though we left on August 14, we stayed in touch with other Indians who are stranded there. We lived in airports waiting rooms without adequate food and water," said Thapa.

Bhupendra Singh, who accompanied Thapa during the journey, recalled, "We were taken to USA airbase from where we were sent to Dubai in a transport ship for goods. Then we were taken to London via flight and then after RTPCR tests we were sent to India. We couldn't eat out of anxiety."

More than 300 persons from Uttarakhand are said to be in Afghanistan waiting to be rescued. Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami has promised every possible help to bring them back. The state government has appealed to people to provide information of their relative/family members in Afghanistan. Information regarding this can be sent on the emergency number 112.

Board disowns member's remark

Lucknow: A day after a member of All India Muslim Personal Law Board, Maulana Sajjad Nomani, praised the Taliban over Afghan occupation, the Board sought to distance itself from his statement. It said this was made in 'personal capacity' and it was not the official stand of the Board. "All India Muslim Personal Law Board has neither expressed any view nor given any statement on Taliban. Opinion of some Board members has been portrayed as the Board's stand. Wrong things are being attributed to the Board," it said.

Now, RSS farmer wing threatens protest

MANISH ANAND @New Delhi

MOUNTING trouble for the NDA government, the farmers' wing of Rashtriya Swayamsewak Sangh (RSS) has threatened a nationwide protest to press for an assurance on procurement of foodgrains on Minimum Support Price.

In a letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the organisation stressed that "lives of small and marginal farmers are becoming hellish and miserable in the country".

Dinesh Kulkarni, organisational secretary of Bharatiya Kisan Sangh (BKS), told this daily that all farmers in the country aren't getting the benefits of MSP and there needs to be a mechanism within the APMC (Agriculture Produce Marketing Cooperatives) or outside to ensure that the assured prices are given to cultivators for their produces. The letter to the PM stated that "the claims of increased MSP by the government are just eyewash, and poor farmers shouldn't be left to the regimes of the private players".

The BKS move comes in the backdrop of the government facing farmers' protests on the outskirts of the national capital, while farmer unions are taking their agitations to all parts of Punjab, Haryana and western UP.

In a hard-hitting letter to the PM, BKS claimed that "in times of prevalent employments" farmers are thinking of suicide with their family members.

Fearing that such cases could go up, the BKS chief INS Baswegowda and general secretary Badrinarayan Choudhary wrote to the PM.

"We've demanded from the government that procurement by traders of foodgrains below the MSP be declared a criminal offence," Kulkarni said, adding that claims of increased MSPs shouldn't just be announcements since all farmers aren't getting the stated prices.

The BKS has also written that farmers must be assured of the remunerative prices, which should be calculated on the basis of input costs and genuine profits.

The planned nationwide protest of the RSS affiliate flies in the face of the claims of the NDA government that it has accorded top priority to small and marginal farmers in policy making, and also the claims of having substantially increased the MSP in the past seven years of its rule at the Centre.

This is likely to be a shot in the arms for the agitating farmers who have been unrelenting against the three farm laws.

"We had sought time from the Prime Minister for the national caste census, which has been given for Monday," tweeted Kumar on Thursday. Tejaswi Yadav and a BJP leader will accompany Kumar.

Cong in disarray in poll-bound states

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

NOT just at the national level, but indecisiveness and delay in organisational revamp in Congress is expected to hamper the party's electoral prospects in some of the states next year.

Elections are scheduled in Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Punjab, Goa, Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh and Manipur in 2022. Some of the Congress state units in these states are in disarray. This is becoming a worry for the local leadership. Missives have been sent to the party high command for expediting organisational revamp and appointments of key functionaries. These concerns are still to be addressed.

Congress ran BJP close in Gujarat in 2017. Many MLAs have joined BJP since. After the debacle in local body polls early this year, Gujarat Congress chief Amit Chavda and Leader of Opposition Paresh Dhanani resigned. There is no new state chief yet. The post of AICC incharge for Gujarat has been vacant following the demise of Rajeev Satav in May.

"The party has recently announced new state units in Assam, Kerala and some other states, where elections have just got over. But there has been inordinate delay in announcing the party chief in Gujarat," said a senior Gujarat leader.

Manipur saw party chief Govindas Konthoujam join BJP. Loken Singh has been appointed interim chief. In UP, Congress made a series of appointments at district and state level but it has created heartburn among senior leaders.

"While BJP has already started preparations for polls through Jan Aashirwad Yatra, we don't even have our organisational set-up in place. How do we expect to fight them. There seems to be no preparation," said another leader.

With the death of Veer Bhadra Singh, Congress has lost its face in Himachal and there are talks of a reshuffle. And in Punjab, internal conflict hogs limelight more often. The Uttarakhand unit saw key appointments only recently.

'Over 3.8 crore missed second dose on time'

PTI @New Delhi

OVER 3.86 crore people did not get their second dose of Covid-19 vaccines within the stipulated period of time, the government has said in response to an RTI query. According to information on the CoWIN portal, as of Thursday afternoon, 44,22,85,854 people received the first dose, while 12,59,07,443 also took their second.

In reply to a query under the RTI Act, seeking to know from the government the number of people who had received the first dose of vaccines but did not take the second within the stipulated time, the COVID-19 Vaccine Administration Cell of the Union Health Ministry said it is recommended the second dose of Covishield be taken within 84-112 days after the first, while in case of Covaxin this should be 28-42 days.

"The total number of vaccinees (beneficiaries) who got their first dose of Covishield but did not get their second dose within stipulated period of time as prescribed by the Govt of India as per the Due Report of in Co-WIN portal is 3,40,72,993 (data as on Aug 17)," the response said. It added the total number of beneficiaries who got their first dose of Covaxin but did not get the second within the stipulated time is 46,78,406 (as on Aug 17).

Supreme Court vacancy: Will Centre clear Collegium's nomination of Justice Nath?

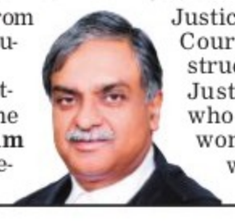
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the Supreme Court already facing vacancies and the Collegium making recommendations to the Centre for elevation of nine judges, all eyes will be on how long the Centre takes in clearing the names.

The Collegium on August 17 recommended nine persons for appointment as judges of the apex court. Eight of them are high court judges/Chief Justices, one is a senior advocate. Three are women judges — Justices Hima Kohli, BV Nagarathna and Bela Trivedi.

If all nine recommendations are cleared, three of them will adorn the post of Chief Justice of India — Justices Vikram Nath, BV Nagarathna and senior advocate PS Narasimha. All others will retire before Justice Surya Kant, who becomes Chief Justice of India from November 2025 to February 2027, retires.

But it will be interesting to see whether the name of Justice Vikram Nath will be cleared because the Centre had earlier rejected his name as Chief Justice of Andhra Pradesh High Court. He is presently Chief Justice of Gujarat High Court. If his name is struck off again, then Justice Nagarathna, who will be the first woman CJI in 2027, will get a longer tenure than a mere month.



Another controversy that looms on the present set of Collegium recommendations is ignoring the seniority of judges. Justice Akil Kureshi (No 2 in all India seniority) and Justice DN Patel (No 3) were elevated on the same day — March 7, 2004, to the Gujarat High Court. Justice DN Patel is currently Chief Justice of Delhi High Court, and Justice Kureshi is the Chief Justice of Tripura High Court.

According to sources, retired Justice RF Nariman wanted to follow the seniority norm for elevation of judges whereas others in the Collegium were opposed to this. So as soon as he retired and new Collegium was constituted, all recommendations were approved.

The Supreme Court Collegium's recommendation to appoint Justice Kureshi as the Chief Justice of Madhya Pradesh High Court had to be recalled in 2019 because the Centre opposed it, as it did not want Justice Kureshi to head a big high court.

Guj HC's interim stay on parts of love-jihad law

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Gujarat/New Delhi

WITH an aim to protect interfaith marriage couples from harassment, the Gujarat High Court on Thursday put an interim stay on the operation of some sections of the state's anti-conversion law. A division bench comprising Chief Justice Vikram Nath and Justice Biren Vaishnav said the interim order was passed to protect people from unnecessary harassment. The HC said an FIR cannot be lodged unless it is established that the woman was lured into marriage on false pretenses.

The Gujarat Freedom of Religion (Amendment) Act, 2021, which penalises forcible or fraudulent religious conversion through marriage, was notified by the state government on June 15. Last month, the Gujarat chapter of the Jamiat Ulema-e-Hind filed a petition saying some of the sections were unconstitutional.

In the interim order passed on Thursday, Chief Justice Nath said, "We are of the opinion that pending further hearing, rigors of section 3,4, 4a to 4c, 5, 6, and 6a shall not operate merely because the marriage is solemnised by a person of one religion with another religion without force, allurement or fraudulent means and such marriages can't be termed as marriage for unlawful conversion."

During the hearing, Gujarat government said three cases have been filed under this law to date and had argued on August 17 that the law does not prohibit interfaith marriages per se. But the bench observed that the language of the law does not make this stated intent clear and also ruled that provisions of the law cannot apply to inter-faith marriages where there is no evidence of force or fraud.

While the state government has not made any statement on the order, legal experts and social activists welcomed the interim stay.

Penal provisions

The now stayed sections had penal provisions of up to three years of imprisonment and a fine of ₹50,000. If the victim is a minor, a woman or from SC or ST community, then the jail term will be four years

TERROR ATTACKS

Apni Party leader shot dead; JCO, terrorist killed in Rajouri encounter

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A leader of the J&K Apni Party was shot dead by terrorists in south Kashmir's Kulgam district, while a Junior Commissioned Officer (JCO) of the Indian Army and a terrorist were killed in the gunfight in the border district of Rajouri in Jammu and Kashmir on Thursday. A police official said terrorists fired at J&K Apni Party leader Ghulam Hassan Lone outside his residence at Devsar in Kulgam district in the evening.

Lone received multiple bullet injuries and was taken to a nearby hospital, where doctors declared him brought dead. After the attack, a joint party of the local police, CRPF and army men launched a search operation. It is the second killing of a political worker in Kulgam in three days. Apni Party president Altaf Bukhari said such attacks are intended to stop the current ongoing peace process in J&K.

Meanwhile, a joint contingent of police, CRPF and army launched a search operation in Thanamandi area in the border district of Rajouri after receiving inputs about the presence of terrorists in the area. An army official said, during the search operation, terrorists fired on the troops, leading to an encounter. In the gunfight, a JCO Subedar Ram Singh (46) and a terrorist were killed and another army man was injured. ADGP Jammu Mukesh Singh said search operation in the area is going on. It is the second encounter between terrorists and security forces in Thanamandi area of Rajouri this month.

On August 6, two LeT terrorists were killed in an encounter with security forces in the Thanamandi area.

BJP wants background check of party workers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Srinagar

A day after a BJP sarpanch was held for possessing a pistol and ammunition in south Kashmir's Kulgam district, the saffron party has asked the police to conduct a CID verification of all the 1,270 party workers in Kulgam.

BJP sarpanch Aqib Shafi Badder and his associate were arrested by a joint patrol party of police and army in Kulgam on Wednesday evening. "The duo travelling on a motorbike was signaled to stop. However, they brandished a pistol and tried to flee. They were chased by the security personnel and arrested," a police spokesman said. He said a pistol, two magazines and 12 rounds were recovered.

BJP district president Kulgam A H Khan told TNIE that sarpanch Aqib had joined BJP about five months ago. Being a BJP worker Aqib was provided safe accommodation in a guest house, where BJP workers stay, he said.

Khan said the party had no information that he was a stone pelter arrested by police and an Over Ground Worker (OGWs) of terrorists. Police, he said, did not inform the party that Aqib was a stone pelter.

Transit camp replaces detention centre as Assam softens lexicon

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

GOING for a more humane nomenclature, the Assam government has replaced the phraseology 'detention centres' with a considerably-softened 'transit camps'. The change comes after years of campaign by rights bodies and agencies, said a senior official, adding: "This is just a change in nomenclature to humanise the whole thing."

"For years, there has been criticism (of the government over the detention centres) by NGOs and others. The change of nomenclature is just to give a more humane look to the whole thing. The phrase detention centres appear like concentration camps," he said.

However, the Congress was not amused, saying the BJP was very good at changing names. "Transit means temporary stay in a place before going to some other place. So the legal ramifications of the name change also has to be clear," Bobbeeta Sharma, who is the chairperson of Assam Pradesh Congress Committee's media cell, said.

The BJP that first rose to power in the state in 2016 riding on the promise of driving out the illegal Bangladeshi immigrants can now afford to look at the issue more rationally.

> Transit means temporary, so where will the people go from the transit camps? What will be their fate
>
> Hafiz Rashid, Advocate

The regional Asom Jatiya Parishad (AJP) said the BJP-led government's softness on the issue of illegal immigrants was reflected in the notification. "Transit camp is a softer terminology. It is respectful than detention centre," AJP president Lurinjyoti Gogoi said.

Amritlal Das, who is the general secretary of All Assam Bengali Aikya Mancha, said people usually do not stay in a transit camp for a long period. "So, for how long will the people be kept in the transit camps before they are deported to Bangladesh?" Das asked.

The detention centres are isolated cells in the conventional jails and the inmates are allegedly treated on a par with the criminals lodged in jails.

No let-up in Lalu scion's tirade against party chief

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@Patna

RJD founder Lalu Prasad Yadav's elder son Tej Pratap Yadav continued his tirade against party's state president Jagdanand Singh on Thursday, too, threatening to sue him for sacking a students' wing leader. Tej Pratap had joined issue with Singh over the dismissal of RJD students' wing leader Akash Yadav on Tuesday last, an action he termed arbitrary.

When asked about Tej Pratap's allegations, Jagdanand Singh dismissed him as a non-entity, saying: "I don't know who Tej Pratap Yadav is. I know only Lalu Prasad Yadav and Tejashawi Yadav."

Threatening that he would not attend any party function until action was taken against Singh, Tej Pratap said: "Who is he (Jagdanand Singh) to remove any officer-bearer of party without serving a notice? Singh should have read the party's constitution before acting arbitrarily on the advice of a migrant advisor from Haryana."

The fight between Singh and Tej, which spilled over into the public domain only now, has its roots in 2020. Sources said when Tej wanted to send a postcard to the President of India seeking Lalu's release from prison in 2020, Singh had refused to support him.

Maha cases down, but mortality rate higher than national, global average

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

WHILE Covid 19 cases have come down in the state, a high mortality rate continues to bog down the health officials. Maharashtra's mortality rate is higher than the national and world average.

According to the Maharashtra health department's report, the state's mortality rate stands at 2.11%, while the national corresponding figure is 1.34%. Besides, the state has a total of 76 Delta plus variant cases across the state at present.

Cumulatively, the state reported 64,06,345 positive cases and 1,35,413 deaths during the pandemic. At present, the state is third in terms of mortality after Punjab 2.72% and Uttarakhand 2.15%.

Maharashtra chief minister Uddhav Thackeray said the danger is not over yet. "People should not drop their guard against the virus. The fight is still going on. The second wave is on a downward swing, but it is not yet over. Besides, there is a danger of the third wave. Many foreign countries despite high vaccination are again going for lockdowns. Therefore people should continue to use masks, sanitise hands and maintain physical distancing," Thackeray warned.

Thackeray said seven districts — Satara, Sangli, Ahmednagar, Pune, Osamanabad, Solapur and Sindhudurg — continue to report fresh cases.

"These are critical districts. The state weekly positivity rate is 2.44%. However, the good sign is that in some districts cases are going down. Nandurbar is the third district after Bhandara and Dhule that has zero active cases, while Dhule, Wasim, Yawatmal, Bhandara, Wardha, and Gondia have less than 10 positive active cases," Thackeray added.

On Thursday, of the 530 fresh fatalities across the country, 179 were from Kerala and 158 from Maharashtra, indicating that the state is still reeling under the pandemic's burden.

Thane reeling under rising case burden

With the addition of 207 new cases of coronavirus, the infection count in Thane district has gone up to 5,48,779, an official said on Thursday. These new cases were reported on Wednesday, he said. The virus claimed the lives of seven, raising the death toll to 11,207

CBI told to probe assault angle in judge's death

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

THE Jharkhand High Court on Thursday directed the CBI to investigate whether additional district and session judge Uttam Anand's death in a hit-and-run had an assault angle to it. The direction came based on a status report submitted by the premier agency.

The court said prima facie it appeared as though Uttam Anand was hit with something by the person sitting beside the driver. According to Chief Justice Dr Ravi Ranjan and Justice S N Prasad, the postmortem report also indicated there was one-and-half-inch deep injury on the right side of his head, indicating a weapon assault as the side-view mirror could not reach the level of Anand's head.

A CCTV footage showing an auto-rickshaw intentionally hitting the Judge from behind on July 28 on a deserted road had raised doubts over his death. Hours after the CCTV footage surfaced, the Jharkhand High Court took suo motu cognisance of the matter.

"Side mirror of the auto cannot reach up to the head; it cannot be considered a case of hit and run. The CBI must understand that some weapon has been used for killing the Judge. The postmortem report also revealed that head injury was the cause of death of Judge Uttam Anand, therefore, the CBI must investigate the case from this angle, otherwise the direction of the investigation might go to a wrong direction," observed the Court.

The Court added that an investigation report related to the spot where the incident took place must also be submitted to clear doubts over whether it was a hit-and-run case or a murder.

During hearing, the court played the CCTV footage of the incident twice before asking the CBI to collect evidence into that aspect also.

Changed UP's image among tourists: Yogi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Lucknow

PRESENTING the work and worth report his governance in the past four years, UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Thursday launched a scathing attack on the Opposition, saying those who found Ayodhya, Kashi and Mathura as symbols of communalism were now in the race to claim Lord Ram and Lord Krishna.

"Those who used to take umbrage in looking towards Ayodhya earlier and chanting Ram-Ram now," said Yogi Adityanath, during a discussion on ₹7301.5 crore supplementary budget on Wednesday.

Claiming that his policies had changed the perception of the state, Yogi said special stress was laid on development of Ayodhya, Kashi and Mathura to make them prominent on the world tourist map. "This could have been done in the previous regimes but then the political masters never looked at Ayodhya," he said.

Cops sat on post-poll violence plaints

THE bench comprising Acting Chief Justice Rajesh Bindal and justices I P Mukerji, Harish Tandon, Soumen Sen and Subrata Talukdar, directed that the SIT can take assistance of any other police officer or any agency.

"The state shall spare their services as and when required and shall not take any adverse action against them without specific permission of the court," the order said.

It said allegations that the police had not registered a number of cases initially and that some were registered only after the court's intervention were true. Also, the incidents of violence were not isolated.

"Rather the violence which erupted after polls and declaration of results was state-wide. Number of persons had died. The women were raped. The house of certain persons who had not supported the party in power were demolished. Their other properties were damaged. Their belongings were looted, including the chattels," the court said.

"There are definite and proved allegations that complaints filed by the victims of post-poll violence were not registered," the order stated.

The BJP welcomed the high court's order. "Altogether 51 party workers were killed and 51,000 of our supporters became homeless. The order will develop people's confidence on judiciary," said BJP's spokesperson Shamik Bhattaharya.

No man's land: Desperate Afghans trapped in Kabul airport

Citizens who arrive at airport in droves are left stranded between the Taliban and US lines, clinging to an unrealistic hope that they will be let in and evacuated

KABUL

THOUSANDS of Afghans were packed Thursday between Taliban checkpoints and a US-imposed ring of steel around Kabul's main airport, desperate to get aboard any flight out following the return of the hardline Islamist group.

Even more were mobbing foreign embassy compounds in the capital, as rumours spread that visas were up for grabs or safe passage on offer at least as far as the airport.

Unconfirmed reports on social media say several people have been killed as US forces and the Taliban struggle to contain the desperate throngs on their respective sides of an unofficial no-man's land.

"I went to the airport with my kids and family... the Taliban and Americans were shooting," said one man who until recently had worked for a foreign NGO. "Despite that, people were still moving forward (to get in) because they knew a situation worse than death awaited them outside the airport."

There have been chaotic scenes since the weekend, when the Taliban drove unopposed into the capital after a two-week lightning offensive that capped a simmering 20-year insurgency.

Distressing pictures and video have emerged of people desperately trying to get aboard any flight leaving — even resorting to climbing on a US military Hercules as it rolled down the runway for take-off. Some semblance of order has been restored, but thousands have been left stranded between the Taliban and US lines — clinging to an unrealistic hope that they will be let in and evacuated.

Many do have visas for a foreign destination — and say they were promised evacuations — but they simply can't get in. "I spoke to my friend who has a letter from Spain saying he can leave with them, but when he tries to go to the gate they threaten to shoot him," said a man who asked not to be identified. AFP

Footballer died in fall from US plane: Report

Kabul: Zaki Anwari, an Afghan national team footballer, died in a fall from a US plane at Kabul airport on Monday, the Afghan news agency Ariana said on Thursday. Ariana said Zaki Anwari fell from a USAF Boeing C-17 and that the death had been confirmed by the General Directorate for Sport. Anwari was one of thousands of Afghans who flocked to the Hamid Karzai International Airport on Monday, hoping to get on a plane out of the country. AP

TALIBAN'S FIVE PROMISES

The Taliban have tried to reassure fearful Afghans — and a wary international community — that this time around they will be "positively different", but their reputation precedes them and few trust the group. Here are five promises the Taliban have made — and their record on the issues.

A Taliban fighter walks past a beauty salon with images of women defaced using spray paint at Shar-e-Naw in Kabul | AFP

Women will have rights, but...

The Taliban are "committed" to the rights of women, who will be able to work and study, the group's spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid has said. But he stressed at every mention of women that their rights will be determined by Islamic law, which has always been interpreted by the ultra-conservative leadership. The last time they were in power, from 1996 to 2001, girls were banned from going to school, and women were largely barred from public life — allowed out of the house only when covered head-to-toe in a burqa and accompanied by a male relative. Women accused of violating these rules were given harsh punishments — including being stoned to death for adultery.

Pardons for all?

The Taliban have insisted that they have forgiven all that fought against them — including government officials, the police, and the armed forces. But many are sceptical because of their record with amnesty announcements, and tens of thousands of Afghans have tried to leave the country fearing reprisals. During their first regime, Taliban fighters killed political opponents and also massacred civilians and religious minorities. In recent months, the Taliban have been accused of murdering surrendering forces and civilians. The UN human rights chief said there were reports of possible war crimes.

Security for embassies, foreign organisations

The Taliban have tried to reassure foreign governments that their embassies, offices and personnel are safe. The Taliban, however, have a poor record when it comes to protecting foreign personnel and missions. In 1996, they entered a United Nations compound where former president Najibullah had been granted refuge, dragged him out to kill him and hang the body from a post. And two years later, when they captured the northern city of Mazar-i-Sharif, they raided the Iranian consulate, killing nine diplomats and a journalist.

No more drugs

The Taliban have promised that they will end the narcotics industry in Afghanistan, one of the world's hubs for the production and trafficking of drugs such as heroin. But despite their claims to the contrary, UN monitors say the illicit drugs industry has been one of the biggest sources of revenue for the Taliban, bringing in hundreds of millions of dollars, according to estimates published last year. 'Anti-Taliban forces are massing north of Kabul'

MOSCOW

RUSSIAN Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov said Thursday that armed resistance to the Taliban is forming in Afghanistan's Panjshir Valley, led by deposed vice-president Amrullah Saleh and Ahmad Massoud, the son of a slain anti-Taliban fighter. "The Taliban doesn't control the whole territory of Afghanistan," Lavrov said in Moscow following a meeting with his Libyan counterpart.

"There are reports of the situation in the Panjshir Valley where the resistance of Afghanistan's vice president Mr Saleh and Ahmad Massoud is concentrated," he said.

Lavrov also reiterated his call for an inclusive dialogue involving all political players in Afghanistan for the formation of a "representative government". The Panjshir Valley northeast of Kabul is Afghanistan's last remaining holdout, known for its natural defences.

According to images shared on social media, Saleh and Massoud, the son of slain Northern Alliance leader Ahmed Shah Massoud, are pulling together a guerrilla movement to take on the Taliban. Moscow has been cautiously optimistic about the new leadership in Kabul and is seeking contact with the militants in an effort to avoid instability spilling over to neighbouring ex-Soviet states. While the US and other countries rushed to evacuate their citizens, Russia said its embassy will continue to function. AFP

UN food agency warns of looming hunger crisis

UNITED NATIONS

THE head of the UN food agency in Afghanistan has said that a humanitarian crisis is unfolding with 14 million people facing severe hunger following the Taliban takeover of the country.

Mary Ellen McGroarty, the World Food Program's country director, said the conflict in Afghanistan, the nation's second severe drought in three years, and the Covid pandemic have pushed an already dire situation into a "catastrophe".

McGroarty said over 40% of crops have been lost and livestock devastated by the drought, hundreds of thousands of people were displaced as the Taliban advanced, and winter is fast approaching. "Really the race is on to get food where it's most needed," she said. AP

Defiant citizens wave national flag on I-Day

KABUL

DEFIANT flag-waving Afghans took to the streets Thursday to mark the country's independence anniversary, just days after the Taliban seized power and raised their own white standard over government buildings.

An AFP staffer saw one group of men and women unfurl a large black, red and green tricolour near Wazir Akbar Khan — a suburb in the capital — even as a pick-up truck carrying Taliban fighters cruised slowly by. The truck slowed down and the group attracted some curious stares, but the fighters rolled on and ignored the show of defiance.

Afghans celebrate the Independence Day of Afghanistan with the national flag in Kabul on Thursday | AFP

Amanullah Khan, then the emir, declared independence in 1919 after the third Anglo-Afghan war and the country has had dozens of flags since then.

The latest was adopted in 2013 and features three vertical bands of black, red and green, with the national emblem printed in white. On Wednesday, Taliban fighters fired shots to disperse dozens of Afghans in Jalalabad who waved the flag ahead of national day. There were also unconfirmed reports of shots fired in Kunar Thursday and Twitter showed several cars and motorbikes racing through the Asadabad suburb of the capital while flying flags. Social media also showed a crowd cheering a man shimmying up a pole in Abdul Haq Square before tying the flag to the top.

On Thursday, the Taliban put out a statement acknowledging the day and the defeat of the British empire as well as the Russian occupation. AFP

Malaysia's longest ruling party seems set to reclaim power

KUALA LUMPUR

MALAYSIA'S longest-governing political party appeared set to reclaim the premiership it lost in a shock 2018 election result, with its lawmakers summoned to the palace Thursday to verify their candidate has enough support to take office.

The choice of former Deputy Prime Minister Ismail Sabri Yaakob would essentially restore the ruling alliance of Muhyiddin Yassin, who resigned as prime minister on Monday after infighting in the coalition cost him majority support.

Ismail's appointment would also see the return of the United Malays National Organization, which ruled Malaysia since independence from Britain in 1957 before it was ousted in 2018 over a major financial scandal. Ismail, 61, appeared to have majority support. Lawmaker Ahmad Maslan, who is secretary-general of UMNO, tweeted that all lawmakers from UMNO and other parties in the former ruling alliance who support Ismail have been summoned to meet Sultan Abdullah Sultan Ahmad Shah.

"With Ismail Sabri poised to become Malaysia's next prime minister under the same alliance, many Malaysians will view it as nothing more than a game of musical chairs" with the baton passed from Muhyiddin's Bersatu party to UMNO, said Ei Sun Oh, a senior fellow at the Singapore Institute of International Affairs.

Muhyiddin departed after less than 18 months in office amid mounting public anger over what was widely perceived as his government's poor handling of the pandemic.

Malaysia has one of the world's highest infection rates and deaths per capita, despite a seven-month state of emergency and a lockdown since June.

The king's role is largely ceremonial in Malaysia, but he appoints the person he believes has majority support in Parliament as PM.

Local media said Ismail is believed to have obtained 114 votes, surpassing the 111 needed for a simple majority. It is similar to the support Muhyiddin has before 15 UMNO lawmakers withdrew support for him, causing his government to collapse.

Muhyiddin appointed Ismail as his deputy in July in a bid to ease tensions with UMNO, which was unhappy at playing second fiddle to Muhyiddin's smaller party. Since Muhyiddin resigned, his party has voiced support for Ismail. AP

Suspected extremists kill 47 in Burkina Faso

OUAGADOUGOU

SUSPECTED Islamic extremists ambushed a convoy in northern Burkina Faso on Wednesday, killing at least 30 civilians along with 17 soldiers and volunteer defence fighters, the government said.

While there was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack in Burkina Faso's Sahel region, militants linked to al-Qaeda and the Islamic State group are increasingly targeting security forces in the West African country.

One recent attack elsewhere in the north killed 30 people including 15 soldiers and four volunteer fighters. And about a week ago, suspected extremists ambushed a group of soldiers in western Burkina Faso, killing 12 of them.

The militants have demonstrated their ability to attack civilians even under military escort, said Rida Lyammouri, senior fellow at the Policy Center for the New South, a Moroccan based organization focused on economics and policy. "This shows the level of information they have on the locations of security forces and transit routes ," Lyammouri said.

Extremist violence and the military's response already have killed thousands and displaced as many as 1.3 million people. Locals say they're scared the uptick in violence will continue. AP

COAI: Need to fix cost-income gap to save telcos

Seeks cut in licence fee to 1% of AGR from 3%, reduction in spectrum fee by 3%

The association and all our members are of the same view..that the 3+1 (three private players plus BSNL-MTNL) structure needs to be preserved

Lt. Gen. Dr. S P Kochhar, COAI DG

JONATHAN ANANDA @Chennai

INDIAN telcos' current financial woes are the direct result of a cost-income mismatch, with realisations at current tariff levels proving inadequate in the face of high statutory and capital expenditures. Nursing the sector back to health would require fixing this gap, SP Kochhar, Director General of the Cellular Operators Association of India (COAI), told this publication in an interaction.

"The industry has very high expenditure levels at present and it is important to bring them down," Kochhar said, noting that the level of taxation in India was among the highest in the world. Reducing these statutory levies would go a long way in providing relief to the sector, he said, while rolling out a floor tariff system would ensure that tariffs remain at sustainable levels.

India's telecom sector, which once boasted over a dozen operators, is now down to just three private players in addition to the state-run BSNL-MTNL combine. With Vodafone Idea, the third largest telco in India, in deep financial crisis, both industry executives and analysts have warned that India may be reduced to an effective duopoly if the government offered no support.

"The association and all our members are of the same view here..," said Kochhar, "that the 3+1 (three private players plus BSNL-MTNL) structure needs to be preserved". Both floor tariffs and a sharp reduction in taxation find place in the COAI's latest letter to the Department of Telecommunications sent earlier this week.

The association, which represents all three private telcos, said in the letter that the "government needs to recognise that the current revenue-sharing regime of around 32% revenue outgo as taxes and levies is unsustainable".

Among the measures it suggests is a cut in licence fee from 3% of adjusted gross revenue (AGR) to 1%; a 3% cut in spectrum usage charges; and a reduction in the mandated 5% contribution to the Universal Service Obligation Fund (USOF) to 1%.

It has also requested a review of the definition of AGR on a "prospective basis".

Banks liable up to 100 times of locker fee

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has announced new locker rules to compensate an amount equivalent to 100 times the annual rent of the safe deposit locker in case of fire, theft, dacoity, building collapse, robbery, burglary or fraud.

At present, banks do not have any liability towards lockers. The rental charge for a safe deposit locker in a bank which is to be paid upfront has also been increased.

It is now mandatory for banks to maintain a branch-wise list of vacant lockers as well as a waitlist for the allotment of lockers. The revised guidelines will come into effect from January 1, 2022. The new norms will apply to both new and existing safe deposit lockers.

On February 19, the Supreme Court held that banks cannot wash their hands off, and gave the banking regulator six months' time to put in place comprehensive guidelines for locker facility management as the present regulations on locker management were inadequate and muddled. The new guidelines said it is the responsibility of banks to take all measures for the safety and security of the premises in which the safe deposit vaults are housed.

It asked banks to clarify in their locker agreement that since they don't have a record of the content of the locker, they would not be under any liability to insure the contents.

Further, banks shall under no circumstance offer, directly or indirectly, any product to its locker-hirers for insurance of the content. To deal with potential situations where the hirer neither operates the locker nor pays the rent, the central bank said that banks can obtain a term deposit at the time of allotment, which would cover three years' rent and the charges for breaking open the locker in case of such eventuality.

Karvy Stock Broking chairman arrested for bank loan default case

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Hyderabad

THE Hyderabad polic arrested C Parthasarathy, Chairman, Karvy Stock Broking Ltd (KSBL), on Thursday.

The move comes nearly two years after allegations of the ₹2,300 crore stock broking scam first came to light in the winter of 2019. Parthasarathy, known as CP in industry circles, was booked for criminal breach of trust, cheating, criminal conspiracy and others under section 406, 420, 409, 421, 422, 120 (B) of the Indian Penal Code. If the charges against him is proved, he'll join the list of bad boy billionaires including B Ramalinga Raju, Vijaya Mallya, Mehul Choksi, Subrato Roy and others.

A chartered accountant-turned-businessman, Parthasarathy made desperate attempts to rope in investors and settle the bills. But more than missed payments to lenders, allegations of fund diversion and misusing customers' monies called it in. Parthasarathy was produced before a court which sent him to judicial remand.

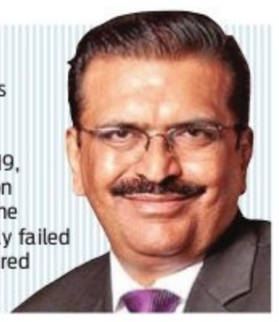
While multiple banks lodged complaints and moved debt recovery tribunals, the police made the arrest based on the complaint filed by IndusInd Bank. In 2019, IndusInd Bank lent ₹185 crore to KSBL on depositing securities and guarantees. The bank alleged that the brokerage not only failed to honor its payments, but also illegally transferred ₹138 crore to other group entities.

In November 2019, Sebi revoked the pledge of securities with banks and NBFCs. This resulted in the IndusInd bank being left with no collateral security. Thereafter, Karvy began defaulting repayments as on March 31, 2021.

The bank alleged that Karvy availed credit facilities of ₹137 crore by pledging securities, shares and personal guarantee of Parthasarathi.

IndusInd plaint led to arrest

While multiple banks lodged complaints and moved debt recovery tribunals, the police made the arrest based on the complaint filed by IndusInd Bank. In 2019, IndusInd Bank lent ₹185 crore to KSBL on depositing securities and guarantees. The bank alleged that the brokerage not only failed to honor its payments, but also transferred ₹138 crore to other group entities.



TRAILING THE KARVY GROUP FIRMS' BINGE ON SMALL-SIZE LOANS

SUNITHA NATTI @ Hyderabad

SMALL is big. That's the credo Karvy Group of companies seem to have deployed for their debt binge over the past decade.

The 35-odd Karvy group companies together owe more than ₹4,800 crore to banks and financial institutions. Of this, barring two major sums — ₹875 crore by Karvy Stock Broking and ₹1,780 crore taken by Karvy Innotech Ltd — much of the debt includes smaller portions of ₹20-30 crore, with a handful going up to ₹75-100 crore.

Karvy Innotech is the group's IT arm and it's likely that the said loan taken in 2017 was for business expansion, but curiously, it raised ₹100 crore putting down a personal guarantee in December, 2019 — barely a month after Sebi imposed an interim ban on the brokerage from adding any new clients.

Brokerage is the group's mainstay and as cash flows took a knock last year, the company struggled to survive on micro loans of as little as ₹30 lakh taken out in February, 2020.

According to company filings with the Registrar of Companies (RoC), Hyderabad, Chairman C Parthasarthy gave personal guarantees for loans worth ₹200 crore, while Karvy Stock Broking Ltd gave corporate guarantees for an even smaller amount. Barring these, much of the debt was raised against pledge of equity shares and immovable property and chargeable assets of the companies.

Lenders allege these funds have been diverted and repayments defaulted, leading to the arrest of Karvy's founder and self-made entrepreneur C Parthasarthy on Thursday. Banks including HDFC Bank, Axis Bank, and IndusInd Bank, have moved debt recovery tribunals and lodged complaints against the company and its promoters.

Interestingly, personal and corporate guarantees came in between June, 2020 and March 2021, perhaps under pressure from lenders to call in loans after NSE and BSE expelled the brokerage from doing business last year for misusing clients' securities worth ₹2,300 crore belonging to about 2.35 lakh investors.

Mobile retailers warn of approaching CCI against Xiaomi's ties with e-tailers

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

MOBILE retailers in India have threatened to approach the Competition Commission of India (CCI) as well as the courts against Chinese handset maker Xiaomi, accusing the smartphone brand of violating the terms of agreement by exclusive tie-ups with online marketplaces.

China-headquartered tech firms captured almost 28% of the smartphone market in India in Q2, 2021, as per a report by Counterpoint research.

In a letter addressed to Xiaomi's Director Offline sales Sunil baby, All India Mobile retailers Association (AIMRA) stated that the agreement between the global brand and offline retailers signed few years back has been repeatedly violated, which has resulted in the non-availability of stocks to a majority of the small businesses.

"Sir, Xiaomi's claims of the highest sales in the last two months has put us all in contemplation as to from which channel has such a huge sale been achieved. Whether it is done by exporters, aggregators or some other channel because Mi partners across India have got the least stock or no stock during that period," says the letter seen by the TNIE.

The retailers have said that China's budget smartphone brand during its entry into Indian markets few years back, had signed contracts with brick and mortar stores, under which the shops were re-branded as Mi stores and agreements with rival brands were suspended, which led to a drop in their revenues. However, the retailers say that Xiaomi has now preferred to launch its exclusive models on online marketplaces as well as limited the supply to offline businesses.

A Xiaomi spokesperson told this publication that the smartphone industry was impacted due to Covid disruptions in supply chain and imports which led to the delay.

RESOLUTION

Jet Airways' ex-employees move NCLAT

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EX-EMPLOYEES of Jet Airways have approached higher authorities to challenge the revival plan of Kalrock-Jalan consortium.

Bharatiya Kamgar Sena (BKS) and Jet Airways Cabin Crew Association have filed an appeal in the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) against the National Company Law Tribunal's June 22 order approving the consortium's ₹1375-crore resolution plan. The unions claim that the consortium fails to protect workers' interests.

They added that the core principle of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code is to protect the interests of all stakeholders but the resolution plan does not protect workers' interest and instead jeopardizes them. It said that if the approved resolution plan is implemented then the core principles of Industrial Disputes Act 1947 as well as other labour laws will be violated.

Experts believed that they are compensated poorly in the resolution plan. Employee claims worth ₹1,265 crore were admitted by the resolution professional but the consortium proposed payment of only ₹52 crore. This roughly translated to ₹23,000 each for eligible employee as against their dues that stands anywhere between ₹3 lakh and ₹85 lakh.

TRADE TALKS

US hints it's not keen on FTAs with India: Govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

COMMERCE Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday said that the US has indicated to India that it is not looking at a new trade agreement and India will focus on foreign trade agreements with other markets, like UK and Australia.

"The USA has kind of indicated that they are not looking at new trade agreements, however, we will work with them to address market access issues on both sides, this will be a big opportunity for our export sector," Goyal said during his interaction with Export Promotion Councils (EPCs), Commodity Boards and Authorities and other stakeholders in Mumbai.

"We are at a very positive momentum in terms of FTAs, with the UK, EU, Australia, Canada, UAE, Israel and the GCC countries. "Our effort is to ensure focus on countries where we have significant potential, where we can compete better and where market size is significant," Goyal informed. He added that India is working towards early harvest agreements with UK and Australia.

"we are engaging with industry to ensure that FTAs are fairly and equitably crafted. At the same time, FTAs cannot be a one-way traffic, we also need to open our markets, if we want a larger share in foreign markets," Goyal added. He assured the exporters that a new foreign trade policy will be announced on October 1 this year.

Exporters body expressed their disappointment over low tax refund rates for the much awaited Remission of Duties and Taxes on Exported Products (RoDTEP) scheme, announced earlier this week, almost after delay of two years.

Govt mulling another hike in fertilizer subsidy

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

THE central government is considering a hike in fertilizer subsidiary again on the back of skyrocketing international prices.

"Rising fertilizer cost has been brought to our notice. The ministry has always supported agriculture sector and is open to another round of hike in subsidy, if required. We are open to all the options," a senior official in the finance ministry told TNIE.

According to the sources in the finance ministry, the agriculture department had meetings with both fertilizer ministry and the finance ministry over the recent hike in international price of fertilizers, which has forced them to curtail imports. Citing examples, last year India had imported urea at around $290 per tonne CFR (cost plus freight), which has almost doubled to $510-515 per tonne. Similarly import cost of di-ammonium phosphate has gone up from $330 to $630 per tonne, ammonia from $205 to $670 per tonne and sulphur from $75 to $210 per tonne. That has resulted in curtailing imports by 20-25%. The hike in their inputs has also effected domestic production and industry sources claim that with lower domestic supply than last year, dependency on imports has increased.

Officials have claimed that while they have cover till this season, there may be supply crunch during rabi season.

"The one option is to import at high price and passing on the hike to farmers but with UP and Punjab elections, that option is fraught with political risks, at a time when farmers are at loggerheads with the government. So another hike in subsidy is the only way out," the official added.

Another reason for price hike is that sanction on Belarus and temporary suspension of exports from China has fuelled the cost further.

Urban India sees rising unemployment in August

SAMIKSHA GOEL @New Delhi

WHILE the overall unemployment in the country hovers between 7.02% and 7.62% in August so far, the urban unemployment rate has been on a rise. Urban unemployment has seen a constant rise since August 9 at 8.56% to August 18 at 9.23%, according to CMIE data.

However, the overall unemployment trend shows a decline from the peak of 11.90% in May (owing to the Covid-induced lockdown) to 9.17% in June and 6.95% in July. Urban unemployment also witnessed a significant drop from 14.73% in May to 10.07% in June and 8.30% in July, while showing an upward movement in August. The 30-day moving average on unemployment by CMIE (Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy) suggests that the urban unemployment rate was 8.21% on the first day of August, and has dropped only on three days in the month. The rural unemployment, on the other hand, has been wavering in the range of 6.45-6.90 in August so far.

According to Lohit Bhatia, President-Workforce Management, Quess Corp, "This is also a time when a majority of the rural workforce returns after sowing and other agri-related activities, with the onset of the monsoon across the country. Hence, we witness reduced labour utilisation rates in rural India. As there has been an influx of rural labour to urban cities, there is a larger urban population that is unemployed, which manifests as higher urban unemployment rates. Additionally, rural unemployment has witnessed a decrease due to the temporary drop in size of the rural workforce, as a consequence of this migration."

Suchita Dutta, executive director of Indian Staffing Federation, said, "The slow rate of vaccination and effects of restrictions delayed the uptake in urban employment."

Protocol confusion for young boxers

Late visa, RT-PCR test issue force Indian contingent to leave for Asian meet starting today in batches

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

AFTER spending hours (on Wednesday and Thursday) at the Delhi airport, first lot of junior and youth boxers, along with coaching staff, managed to leave for Dubai late on Thursday, a day before the ASBC Asian Youth & Junior Boxing Championships.

The team was supposed to travel from Delhi on Wednesday, but was forced to miss their flights after arriving late for an RT-PCR test, which the team was not aware of. The RT-PCR tests undertaken by the contingent in Rohtak also didn't have a bar code. Only those with test reports from certified labs that issue a QR code linked to the original report are allowed to travel to the UAE. Everything compounded because of the late visa. Now the team is travelling in batches due to limited seats available on flights. Around 23 managed to leave on Thursday while the rest are expected to leave on Friday morning depending on the availability of tickets. Given the situation, if any boxer is scheduled to play on Friday and is still in India, the delay could hurt his/her chances.

There was no Indian representative for the technical meeting of the participating nations at the ASBC Asian Youth & Junior Boxing Championships on Thursday | ASBC

"We were supposed to come to the airport four hours in advance and undergo RT-PCR tests. The airlines/travel agents did not give that information to anyone. So we reached the airport like we used to during the past, just three hours before departure and we learned about this before getting boarding card," one of the members of the contingent told this daily.

According to Dubai travel requirements, 'Passengers must complete a Covid-19 PCR rapid test at the airport before the departure of their flight. The rapid PCR test can be conducted within 6 hours prior to departure. (RAT not accepted).'

Another member of the team said that the booking agency is partly to blame. Because of travel restrictions to Dubai, even the visa was granted at the eleventh hour, like for the previous outing of seniors in May. Because of lack of information and subsequent red light from airline authorities, the Boxing Federation of India arranged a place for the youngsters to stay in Delhi.

The boxers have to bear the brunt. "They are tired but what can be done? This happens," a team official said. The delay is a mighty blow for the potential stars of tomorrow as some of them might not get much time to rest before they begin their campaign on Friday. The official draw was held at 9.30 pm IST on Thursday. There is a possibility that some boxers could be in action on Friday.

Eighteen teams, including boxers from Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, are expected to be part of the continental event. A total of 51 boxers from India will be hoping to make a name for themselves in the next few days. Each one of them had earned a spot after doing well in the nationals last month. For the last three weeks or so, they had been training for this assignment. After Lovlina Borgohain's inspirational Olympic medal, there is a buzz among the youngsters. The team, despite airport woes, enters the event with plenty of hope. There are some pugilists who had won medals at the junior level and are now representing the country at the youth level.

"The government is doing so much for the athletes these days. Cash rewards have become a norm. That has certainly added to their motivation levels." In the men's youth section, there are names like Vishvanath Suresh (48kg), Bishwamitra Chongtham (51kg), who are former gold medallists in the event at the junior level.

Veteran athletics coach OM Nambiar (right) with PT Usha

OM NAMBIAR: THE MAN WHO UNEARTHED PT USHA NO MORE

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

BEFORE Neeraj Chopra's historic gold for India in athletics at the Tokyo Games, one of the athletes who agonisingly came close to a medal in track and field events at the Olympics was 'Golden Girl' PT Usha.

Considered one of the greatest athletes that the country has produced, Usha had missed the bronze medal at the 1984 Los Angeles Games by one-hundredth of a second. After Neeraj's exploits, Usha talked about how the 23-year-old had completed her 'unfinished dream'. In fact, it was not just her unfulfilled dream but also that of her coach OM Nambiar. The veteran coach, who unearthed PT Usha, passed away on Thursday at his residence in Vadakkara, Kerala.

Nambiar, who has been battling Parkinson's disease for some time, was 89. In fact, Usha had recently met him to check up on his health and also to discuss how India had finally won a medal in athletics at the Olympics. The sprint legend took to Twitter to pay tributes to her mentor, coach and guide. "The passing of my guru, my coach, my guiding light is going to leave a void that can never be filled. Words cannot express his contribution to my life. Anguished by the grief. Will miss you OM Nambiar sir. RIP," she tweeted.

Usha and Nambiar were one of the most popular coach-athlete pairs and his fame spread far and wide as the Payyoli Express kept on setting the track on fire.

Nambiar was conferred with Padma Shri earlier this year and he is also the recipient of the Dronacharya Award which he received back in 1985.

The former Air force man who was an athlete himself, was instrumental in making Usha focus on the 400m hurdles for the 1984 Olympics. That decision nearly won Usha and India an Olympics medal and highlighted the importance that coaches play in the lives of sportspersons. "Everyone knows about the legendary combination of PT Usha and OM Nambiar. He played a major part in spotting her," said Ajanachandran PA, who is the general secretary of the Usha School.

Late intervention helped Barath bag bronze medal

VIVEK KRISHNAN @ Chennai

IT was a late intervention that ensured the participation of Tamil Nadu's S Barath in the mixed 4x400m relay final of the World U20 Athletics Championships in Nairobi on Wednesday. The 18-year-old hadn't taken part in the heats on Wednesday morning since he was carrying an ankle injury on his left leg, and it needed persuasion from the Tamil Nadu Athletics Association (TNAA) for the youngster to be included. The move worked wonders as he gave the team a fantastic start with a timing of 47.12 secs and set the foundation for their bronze medal at the World U20 Athletics Championships. Priya Mohan, Summy and Kapil were also part of the medal-winning relay team.

The call to the Indian camp was made by TNAA secretary, C Latha, after consulting Barath's personal coach, R Pugazhenthi. Latha was convinced that Barath would be able to do a good job in the final. As a result, Kerala's Abdul Razak did not take part in the final.

"After seeing the heats, I called his personal coach and asked him why Barath didn't run. The coach informed me that he is carrying an injury. But it was not a severe injury and I knew that he will do well if given a chance. The junior national coach was eventually convinced and allowed Barath to participate," Latha told this daily.

Barath is pleased that he was able to contribute to India securing a medal on the opening day of their event. The pain on his left ankle had initially surfaced when he was training with his coach in Chennai last month.

BCCI tweaks domestic calendar, Ranji from Jan

VIVEK KRISHNAN @Chennai

THE 2021-22 domestic cricket calendar has undergone a few tweaks from the dates that were initially announced and will commence in exactly a month from now. The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) had said in a press release at the start of July that the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 Trophy will be held from October 20 to November 12, followed by the Ranji Trophy (November 16 to February 19) and Vijay Hazare Trophy (February 23 to March 26). The season was supposed to start on September 21 with the commencement of the Senior Women's One-Day League.

However, the BCCI has now communicated to state associations that it has revised the calendar as it deals with the challenge of hosting a full-fledged domestic season amidst the Covid-19 pandemic. The Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy will now begin on October 27 and conclude on November 22. More importantly, the Ranji Trophy is now slated to be held from January 5 to March 20 while the Vijay Hazare Trophy will be squeezed in between the two tournaments and will be held from December 1 to 29. The season will begin on September 20 with the men's and women's U-19 one-day meets. These dates might still be subject to change as the Covid-19 situation evolves in the country.

With just two-and-a-half months allotted for the Ranji Trophy this term, the challenge will be to conduct the whole tournament in its usual format. The 2019-20 Ranji campaign, for instance, took a little over three months to be completed.

Just days after Beijing rejected calls for a renewed probe into the origins of Covid-19, the World Health Organization said Wednesday it remained confident China would cooperate in the investigation.

The US Federal Trade Commission on Thursday refiled a lawsuit accusing Facebook of maintaining an illegal monopoly in social networking, saying the online giant's dominance "is protected by high barriers to entry".

EXFILE • CLIMATE CRISIS
HOW HUMANITY FIXED GLOBAL WARMING ONCE WITHOUT KNOWING IT
India took an important though largely unnoticed action on climate change on Wednesday. The Union Cabinet ratified an amendment to the Montreal Protocol, the world's most celebrated environmental treaty, to phase out hydrofluorocarbons (HFCs), a greenhouse gas thousands of times more powerful than CO_2. The Montreal Protocol was geared towards stopping ozone-depleting chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) that were widely used as a refrigerant, and later the treaty was amended to include HFCs. A new study says the Protocol's unintended benefits have already saved Earth once from runaway climate
2040
Continued growth in CFCs would have led to a worldwide collapse in the ozone layer by the 2040s, the study showed 2100
The modelling study in Nature says that if the Montreal Protocol had not banned the man-made gases that dissolve naturally occurring ozone, by 2100 they would have heated up the planet's surface 2.50C above-and-beyond warming caused by the carbon pollution humanity is struggling to curb today
WHAT'S NEW ABOUT THIS STUDY
What researchers have neglected to investigate until now is the impact that extra UV radiation from the CFC-caused ozone depletion would have had on nature's capacity to absorb greenhouse gases
The latest study created models combining data on ozone depletion, plant damage caused by UV, Earth's natural carbon cycle, and climate change
Researchers discovered that the ability of plants to absorb CO_2 would have been severely degraded by the ozone-destroying molecules
A world where these chemicals increased and continued to strip away at our protective ozone layer would have been catastrophic for human health. But also for vegetation. The increased UV would have massively stunted the ability of plants to soak up carbon from the atmosphere, meaning higher CO2 levels and more global warming

AstraZeneca vax efficacy lasts longer than Pfizer's

UK study on 3 lakh people also demonstrates that effectiveness declines over time; protection higher in those with prior infection

MEDICINE

LONDON: The effectiveness of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine against Covid-19 declines faster than that of the AstraZeneca jab, according to a new study published on Thursday.

"Two doses of Pfizer-BioNTech have greater initial effectiveness against new COVID-19 infections, but this declines faster compared with two doses of Oxford-AstraZeneca," researchers at Oxford University wrote in a paper.

The study, which has not been peer reviewed, is based on the results of a survey by Britain's Office for National Statistics that carried out PCR tests from December last year to this month on randomly selected households.

It found that "the dynamics of immunity following second doses differed significantly" between Pfizer and AstraZeneca, according to the university's Nuffield Department of Medicine.

Pfizer had "greater initial effectiveness" but saw "faster declines in protection against high viral burden and symptomatic infection", when looking at a period of several months after full vaccination, although rates remained low for both jabs.

"Results suggest that after four to five months effectiveness of these two vaccines would be similar," the scientists added, while stressing that long-term effects need to be studied.

The study's findings come as Israel is administering booster shots, after giving 58 percent of the population two shots of the Pfizer jab.

Results suggest that after four to five months effectiveness of these two vaccines would be similar

Scientists said, stressing that long-term effects need to be studied

The United States is also set to offer booster vaccines to boost antibody levels following concerns over declining effectiveness of the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines.

The Oxford research also found that protection was higher among those who had already been infected.

The study examined two groups of more than 300,000 people over 18, first during the period dominated by the Alpha variant, which emerged in Kent, southeast England, and secondly from May 2021 onwards, when the Delta variant has been dominant.

It confirmed that vaccines are less effective against Delta, which was first seen in India.

The AstraZeneca vaccine is the most widely offered in the UK, while those under 40 are offered Pfizer or Moderna due to blood clotting concerns.

Results also showed that the Pfizer vaccine showed a 92% efficacy in keeping people from having a high viral load 14 days after the second dose.

Vaccine effectiveness wanes

But the vaccine's effectivness declined over time: 90% after 30 days, 85% after 60 days and 78% of after 90 days.

The efficacy of AstraZeneca-Oxford's vaccine dropped to 61% after 90 days, the news section of Nature reported.

Sarah Walker, a Oxford University medical statistician who led the study, told Nature that the decline in efficacy shouldn't be cause for worry. For "both of these vaccines, two doses are still doing really well against Delta", she was quoted as saying.

"Most of our tests are monthly; we can't really say very much at all about how long people are infectious for and particularly whether that's different with Delta. Anyone who thinks that if they get infected having been vaccinated, they can't transmit — that isn't likely to be true," Walker said in reference to viral loads.

SARS booster shots may help fight Covid-19 strains

People who were infected with SARS in 2003 and recovered are able to produce antibodies that can potentially neutralise all known Covid-19 variants of concern, scientists have found in a separate study in The New England Journal Of Medicine. A new booster jab based on this approach may involve targeting the SARS-CoV-1 virus responsible for the 2003 SARS epidemic, the Strait Times reported. For the study, the team recruited 8 people who recovered from SARS-CoV-1, 10 healthy people and 10 people who recovered from Covid.

Horizon Workrooms, announced by Facebook on Thursday, allows people to share their laptop screens in VR meetings to make remote collaboration easier | FACEBOOK

FB unveils virtual reality Workrooms

TECHNOLOGY

FACEBOOK on Thursday unveiled technology for "workrooms," allowing remote collaboration for people using its Oculus virtual reality gear.

The "Horizon Workrooms" project allows users to switch back and forth from virtual reality to web conferencing to adapt to different situations.

"Workrooms is our flagship collaboration experience that lets people come together to work in the same virtual room, regardless of physical distance," the company said in an Oculus blog post.

"It works across both virtual reality and the web and is designed to improve your team's ability to collaborate."

This enables participants to join a meeting as an avatar in virtual reality or by video calling. The announcement comes as the social media giant moves to blend its hardware, gaming and virtual reality units to build an immersive digital world known as the "metaverse," borrowing a term coined by sci-fi writer Neal Stephenson.

The project is seen as central to Facebook's future by chief executive Mark Zuckerberg, who is seeking to diversify the company beyond social networking and advertising. The Oculus division has mostly been for gaming but is gaining traction in other areas.

Entire Brazilian district slipping into sea

ENVIRONMENT

SAO JOAO DA BARRA: As a result of human action, over the past half century the Atlantic Ocean has been relentlessly consuming Atafona, a seaside district part of the Sao Joao da Barra municipality that is 250 km from Rio de Janeiro's capital and home to 36,000 people. Due to climate change, there is little hope for a solution. Instead, Atafona will slip into the sea.

The Paraiba do Sul River, which originates in neighboring Sao Paulo state, brings sediment and sand to Atafona where it empties into the Atlantic Ocean. Its flow was mostly diverted in the 1950s to provide water to the growing capital, which weakened Atafona's natural barrier to the ocean, said Pedro de Araújo, materials technology professor at the Fluminense Federal Institute. "Less land sediment and sand that stabilized the coast made it so the sea is eating away at the city," said de Araújo, who is pursuing a doctorate analyzing river erosion and seeking to model what that will mean for its delta going forward. He estimates that the river has one-third of its original flow.

Deforestation of mangroves in recent decades also left Atafona more vulnerable

Robot tour guide for caves

TECHNOLOGY

Persephone is a tour guide in Greece, but perhaps not the type people are used to. Billed as the world's first robot tour guide inside a cave, Persephone has been welcoming visitors since mid-July to the Alistrati Cave in northern Greece. The robot was named Persephone because, as per one version of the ancient Greek myth, it was in a nearby plain that Pluto — the god of the underworld who was also known as Hades — abducted Persephone, with the consent of her father Zeus, to take her as his wife. The robot can give its part of the tour in 33 languages and interact at a basic level with visitors in three languages. It can also answer 33 questions, but only in Greek. The site has seen a 70% rise in visitors after the $139,000 robot arrived.

New wildfire in US explodes

ENVIRONMENT

A wildfire that erupted outside California's state capital just a few days ago had exploded to cover 54,000 acres by Wednesday, an eight-fold increase in 24 hours. At least two people had to be airlifted to hospital as the Caldor Fire tore through a small town 80 km from Sacramento. Thousands of people have been told to seek safety, with the blaze raging uncontrolled through the Eldorado National Forest. "Please, please heed the warnings, and then when you're asked to get out, get out," Fire Chief Thom Porter said, according to the Sacramento Bee newspaper. The Caldor Fire is one of scores raging across the desiccated western United States, partly due to man-made climate change.

COST OF LIVING

Study estimates minutes of life gained or lost by what you eat

HEALTH

A team of researchers from the University of Michigan in the United States has analysed various food items and found their impacts on humans in terms of minutes of "healthy" life lost or gained.

For example, they show that consuming one hot dog costs a person 36 minutes and in comparison, eating 30 grams of nuts and seeds gives a gain of 25 minutes of "healthy life"- an increase in good-quality and disease-free life expectancy.

The study also showed that substituting 10% of daily caloric intake of beef and processed meats with a diverse mix of grains, fruits, vegetables, nuts, legumes and seafood could reduce the dietary carbon footprint of a US consumer by a third. In addition to this, the change could also add 48 health minutes of life per day.

The study looks to identify the actions people can take to improve their health and also reduce the environmental footprint.

The researcher team lead by Olivier Jolliet and Katerina S. Stylianou said to The Conversation that when it came to environmental sustainability, they found striking variations both within and between animal-based and plant-based foods. For the "red" foods, beef has the largest carbon footprint across its entire life cycle – twice as high as pork or lamb and four times that of poultry and dairy.

From a health standpoint, eliminating processed meat and reducing overall sodium consumption provides the largest gain in healthy life compared with other food types.

Therefore, people might consider eating less of foods that are high in processed meat and beef, followed by pork and lamb. And notably, among plant-based foods, greenhouse-grown vegetables scored poorly on environmental impacts due to the combustion emissions from heating.

Their study also showed that for food sustainability, it is not sufficient to only consider the amount of GHGs emitted. Water-saving techniques, such as drip irrigation and the reuse of gray water – such as that from sinks and showers – can also make important steps toward lowering the water footprint of food production. A limitation of the study is that the epidemiological data does not allow the differentiation of the same food group, such as the health benefits of a watermelon versus an apple.

For the red foods, beef has the largest carbon footprint across its entire life cycle – twice as high as pork or lamb and four times that of poultry and dairy

The researchers wrote in The Conversation
